Paris, August 29.—The French war office gave out the following official statement this afternoon: "The Russian army has completely invested Koenigsberg and occupied Allenstein, both in East Prussia. The Germans continue to retreat.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—via wireless to the Associated Press.—News of the defeat of five Russian army corps to the south of Allenstein is made public here today. It is regarded as encouraging and as greatly relieving the situation in East Prussia. It is said to insure the flank of the German position.

The Associated Press has been informed from official Austrian sources that the battles, which have been in progress for several days past, are expected to be decisive. Austrian troops are pursuing the Russians from Kraskin, about 20 miles north of the Galician frontier, in the direction of Lublin.

No news was received here today concerning the situation on the French frontier beyond a special dispatch declaring that the British defeat at St. Quentin was complete.

London, August 29.—According to reports in London, France has formed a new army of a quarter of a million men to take the offensive against the German right. This rumor, however, lacks confirmation.

Exhaustion on the part of the German troops and the consequent necessity of momentarily slackening their forward movement is offered in some quarters today as an explanation of the absolute silence which has veiled all the operations in northern France since the desperate struggle on Wednesday, when a quarter of a million of German soldiers tried to hack their way through the British lines held by less than half that number. Just as many other people, however, are convinced that the battle which Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, said on Wednesday was impending, is now in progress, and that the commanders are awaiting a decisive outcome before permitting anything to become public.

A dispatch to the Post from Terneusem, a seaport in the Netherlands, describing the sack of Louvain from what it claims to be an authoritative source, says many civilians were killed including young women, children, and the clergy. Their nationality it is declared did not save one English and one American clergyman. All the public buildings were destroyed.

London, August 29.—The official information bureau, in a statement regarding the destruction of the Belgian town of Louvain by the Germans and the German announcement that the inhabitants had fired on their troops, says:

"The assumption of the German commander was, under the circumstances, so wide of probability that it can only be supposed that, in the desire to conceal the facts, the first idea which occurred to him was seized upon as an excuse for an act, without parallel in the history of civilized people.

"Louvain has been utterly destroyed by one of the Emperor's commanders, in a moment of passion, to cover the blunder of his own men."

54 VICTIMS

By Associated Press.

London, August 29.—A dispatch to Lloyd's from Nikolayev, Russia, says that the small passenger steamer Empress, from Odessa, struck a mine on August 11 and was destroyed. Fifty-four persons perished, but most of the passengers and crew were picked up by other steamers.

London, August 29.—The correspondent of the Telegraph at Arras, sends an account of the fighting in the vicinity of Cambrai under Thursday's date. He says: "Cambrai was occupied yesterday by the Germans despite the efforts of the English. The defense of the frontier from Lille to Valenciennes was, until twelve hours ago, intrusted to the British, who did all in their power to halt the advance of the enemy, but conditions were unfavorable.

"The force opposed was one of the most highly trained and best equipped in the world, consisting of a cavalry division supported by a battalion of infantry with artillery and machine guns. So rapid and audacious are its movements that in four days cavalry has appeared at almost every point along the road from Lille to Cambrai.

"The British were without artillery or machine guns, but they had orders to hold Cambrai at all costs. Heaven knows they tried. The retirement was conducted skillfully and coolly and with the assistance of Belgian troops, who came up just in time.

WAR WILL DRAIN ENGLAND

London, August 29.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts made the declaration today that Great Britain in the present war would require hundreds of thousands of soldiers. The occasion of this statement was the review of a new regiment of 1,300 London business men.

ITALY ON THE VERGE OF WAR

Geneva, Switzerland, via Paris, August 29.—There is much talk on this side of the Italian border of Italy's reported preparation to join England and France against Germany and Austria. Italians in Switzerland have been called to the colors and it is reported here that the Italian fleet has been concentrating at a certain port on the Adriatic preparatory to joining the British and French squadrons before Trieste.

NAVAL LOSS DENIED

Peking, China, Aug. 29.—After an inquiry at Tsing-Tau the German Legation denies that the German torpedo boat destroyer "S-90" has been sunk.

A dispatch from Chefoo, China, last night said that the British torpedo boat destroyer Welland, had engaged and sunk the "S-90."

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 29.—With six inch guns mounted fore and aft; with every porthole blanketed and all lights extinguished, the White Star liner Adriatic, put into port in the darkness of the early morning today. She had aboard 1,762 passengers, nearly all Americans, who were in England at the outbreak of hostilities.

It is said that the vessel will go, with little delay, from here to Halifax to help carry Canadian volunteers across the sea.

8 HOUR BATTLE

By Associated Press.

London, August 29.—The naval engagement between the British and Germans off Heligoland lasted about 8 hours, during which the fighting was sharp and terrible, according to a dispatch to the Evening News from Harwich. The correspondent says this description of the fight was given by crews of the British destroyers which took part in the engagement and have arrived at Harwich.

BULLETINS

By Associated Press.

London, August 29.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Reuter Telegram Company recites a daring act credited to Prince Eristoff, a colonel in the Russian horse artillery. When the Germans were retreating from Stallupoenen, a town of East Prussia the Prince ordered his men to unhitch their horses from their own guns, mount them, and gallop after the Germans. Under a heavy fire the Russian cavalrymen went forward, captured the German guns and brought them back to their lines.

London, August 29.—According to the Antwerp correspondent of the Daily News, King Albert constantly mingles with his troops and was in their camp in the fighting around Malines. He was always at the point of the greatest danger, assisting and encouraging the men. He went among them freely, attired simply as a soldier, and his sympathetic conduct had a great effect on the Belgian troops.

London, Aug. 29.—The official information bureau gives out the following message received by the war office from Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces in France: "Will you kindly convey to the First Lord of the Admiralty the congratulations of the army in the field on the splendid naval success of yesterday."

Rome, Aug. 29.—A dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia, from Basel, Switzerland, says that three German army corps, two Austrian army corps and a great quantity of siege artillery have crossed the Rhine.

NEW PICTURE OF KAISER WILHELM AND SECOND SON, PRINCE EITEL FREDERICK, IN THE FIELD

This new picture shows Kaiser Wilhelm and his second son, Prince William Eitel Frederick, in the field. The Kaiser is easily the man of the hour in this war, standing out as the one principal figure in the war of the nations. His son here shown is the tallest of the six. He is thirty-one years old, being a year younger than the crown prince.

London, Aug. 29.—Paris is preparing for the possibility of being whipped into an entrenched camp with the back of the allies' first line of defense on the Belgian frontier broken.

Taking advantage of the gap in the defense forces from St. Amand to Dunkirk on the coast, a German division, estimated at 70,000, is reported to have turned the extreme left of the French army and to have forced advance troops around Lille as far as Arras, 100 miles from Paris.

Berlin's report of general victories, uncontradicted by the French war office, indicates a break into French territory at Metz and the defeat of the British forces at Mauberge, department of Nord.

Balked by the desperate fighting of the allies from striking quickly at the French capital through the valley of the river Meuse, the German army of the Moselle under Grand Duke Albrecht of Wurttemberg is reported to have pushed the English back of the river Sambre, in the departments of the Aisne and Nord, and to have planted a mighty wedge between the defensive armies of the east and south.

has been imposed by the censorship. From a message sent out twenty-four hours ago by the French embassy, showing fighting on the line between Cambrai and Lecateau, it is apparent that the French have been driven back past their line of frontier fortresses to a point twenty miles behind that line. There is no longer any serious fortified obstacle between the German main advance and Paris. Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that the French ministry has resigned and reconstituted itself as a committee of public safety.

With the German army reported in precipitous retreat before the Russian invaders in East Prussia, the French war office announced that the Russians are making a vigorous offensive against the Austrians, and after winning two engagements near Lemburg are now only twenty miles from that important city in Galicia. The Germans are officially reported to be in active retreat toward Koenigsburg, the German stronghold in the north. Moved by the reverses of his soldiers in Prussia and the dangers of the inhabitants, Emperor William, as king of Prussia, telegraphed a special plea to his council of ministers to hurry forces to the relief of Prussia.

NORTH CAROLINA SAILS FOR TURKEY

Washington, Aug. 29.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels told callers that the United States cruiser North Carolina would sail today for Turkish waters. The secretary said the first port of call probably would be Constantinople. It was said at the navy department that no additional advices of an alarming character had been received from Turkey, but that pursuant to suggestions from the state department the North Carolina could now be spared for the Turkish mission.

GERMAN ACTION AIDS AMERICANS

Washington, Aug. 29.—Information of vital importance to industries throughout the United States employing millions of men was received at the state department. It came from Ambassador Gerard in Germany and was to the effect that Germany had lifted the restrictions on shipments of dyestuffs to the United States. This means that many cotton, woolen, leather and other factories that use colors made in Germany will be able to get supplies without interruption in business that was feared by dealers in chemicals. Germany is not only willing to permit such shipments, but has given assurances that the Rhine is open for transportation. This means that the colors may be shipped in the neutral vessels of Holland.

cope with the advancing five Russian armies which are now penetrating Germany via East Prussia.

That this policy is succeeding is partly proved by the carnage which was registered in the official announcement. This stated that during five days of incessant fighting 7,000 German dead were found along an alignment of seven kilometers, or in other words, a dead soldier for every yard of ground.

Much of this deadly work was due to the French artillery, which is reported as butchering, rather than killing, whole bodies of the Germans. Vichy, with its huge military hospital and its thirty hotels which have been turned into hospitals, is one of the principal ambulance centers. The others are in towns of the beautiful chateau country like Chartres and Angoulême or are scattered in different provinces like Nantes, Bourges, Agon and Dax. The nearest large center to Paris for wounded is at Versailles.

The nature of the wounds of the soldiers brought to the hospitals are not as serious as in former wars. They are chiefly in the legs and arms.

SAY ALLIES PENNEED UP

Washington, Aug. 29.—This dispatch, received by wireless from the Berlin foreign office, was given out at the German embassy here:

"As a result of the recent encounter the French and English north armies on the Sambre and the Meuse rivers have been surrounded by the German troops. The French east army was partly driven south. This prevented communication between the French east and north armies, while all the German armies are in contact from Cambrai to upper Alsace. The German cavalry has advanced to Ostend. The civilians of the Belgian town of Louvain perfunctory attacked German troops while fighting and were punished by the destruction of the city. Appearance of Zeppelins in Antwerp caused a panic in London. Reports from Copenhagen and Stockholm announce a grave crisis in the French government."

BRITISH VICTORS ON SEA

Battle Fought in the North Sea
Off Helgoland.

London, Aug. 29.—The admiralty officially announced that the British fleet sunk two German cruisers and two destroyers off Helgoland. The announcement says that a third cruiser was set afire and was left burning. According to the announcement, no British ship was lost in the battle and the British loss of life was not heavy.

The British squadron was commanded by Rear Admiral David Beatty, who carried in 1901 Miss Ethel Field, daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago. Rear Admiral Beatty formerly was naval secretary to the first lord of the admiralty. The admiralty further announced that the destroyer Welland has sunk the German destroyer S90 off the Chinese coast.

The report that Prince Albert, "the sailor prince," second son of King George, who was on the battleship Collingwood, had been attacked with appendicitis, is officially contradicted. It is said, however, that he has been transferred to a hospital ship.

The importance of the daring raid is the fact that the British fleet passed behind Germany's heavily armed outpost on Helgoland island and engaged the German mosquito fleet guarding the mouth of the Elbe and the entrance to the Kiel canal.

Lincoln's Life Line.

When former Senator Blackburn was a very young man he practiced law for a time in Chicago.

One day in the fifties he was engaged in a case against one of the big lawyers of the city. Blackburn was in straits. He floundered a bit, and a tall, homely man who was reading a newspaper near him gave him a hint. He floundered again, and the tall man gave him another hint.

Then the opposing lawyer jumped up. "If your honor please," he shouted, "I desire to inquire whether Abraham Lincoln is an attorney of record in this case?"

"I'll answer that," said Mr. Lincoln, the future president. "I am not, but I am too soft hearted to sit here and watch this young man overboard without throwing him a plank!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Peeling Onions For a Living.

The profession of onion peeling is not one that obtains much notice, yet there are at least 500 women in the east end of London earning their living by removing onion skins. With practice they can make 4 or 5 shillings per day. Often they have been peeling since childhood, daughters succeeding mothers. It is not a profession, you can learn in one lesson, for the skin must be removed by hand or the onion "juices" and is no use for pickling. The onions are always peeled in water. This is not to save the eyes of the peeler, but is done to keep the onion white.—London Express.

The Thoughtful Hour

There is a great pleasure in solitude also great strength. Few men of modern times seem to have the desire or the opportunity to separate themselves from society for any length of time or to devote themselves very extensively to communion with their own thoughts. But the great men of all ages have loved solitude and the great men of all ages to come will love it.

In the mad rush and whirl of modern business life distorted views are so common they are almost regarded as normal. Certainly the end and aim of life is not acquiring houses, automobiles, gold coin, banking, stock keeping, farming and the hundred and one thousand things that go to make up our commercial and industrial organization and existence. If every man was to devote himself to self imposed isolation for one hour out of the twenty-four, giving himself up to thoughts other than his business, directing his attention to something besides his own needs, his own wants, his own selfish desires, war, pestilence, famine and disease would fade away before humanity like mist before the sun. It is selfishness that crushes the life out of men. It is contagious—take a bunch of boys playing on the street, throw a coin before them and they will nearly all scramble for it. The first coin you throw there will perhaps be two or three boys in the bunch who will stand to one side and make no effort, but for the second that falls you will find those boys scrambling as eagerly for the money as any of the rest—simply through force of contagion.

Place men in the march of the world, where every man is working at high tension, and it is either get in or get out; it is either follow the example of the rest or lay down your bow and quiver. Commercialism is like militarism. In Europe each nation had to arm because other nations were arming, and every nation was striving to get ahead of the other, so that it kept them all doing their utmost in arming. In trade life it is the same thing. With men they are obliged to render their best intellect, their best energy and sacrifice their vitality so that their neighbors and competitors may not get ahead of them, thus leaving them in the rear there to be speedily crushed the most to suffer defeat and oftentimes humiliation.

What a noble thing it would be for all men if they would enter into a compact and devote themselves for a short time each day to the elimination of utter selfishness and the devotion of society to the general good, instead of each attempting to render it to his own individual aggrandizement.

French Jury Swayed by Psychology of Crowd in Courtroom

Judge EDWARD SWANN of New York on the Caillaux Trial

It would appear that in France, while questions of fact are nominally for the jury to determine, nevertheless the AUDIENCE IN THE COURTROOM IS SO RESPONSIVE TO EVERY SENTIMENT AND EMOTION caused by a piece of evidence or the argument or even exclamations of counsel that it performs more than the functions of the "Greek chorus" in a classic drama, while the JURY, BEING ONLY HUMAN, MUST BE SWAYED ONE WAY OR THE OTHER UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THE "PSYCHOLOGY OF THE CROWD," and there often results what we may be excused for calling "a recall of the verdict" before it is rendered.

THE FRENCH SYSTEM, EVEN MORE THAN OURS, ALLOWS WONDERFUL LATITUDE FOR THE DISPLAY OF SKILL OF COUNSEL IN DELECTING THE ISSUES FROM THE TRUE ISSUE OF THE GUILT OR INNOCENCE OF THE ACCUSED. THE REPORT OF THE FIRST DAY OF THE TRIAL SAYS THAT M. LABORI, COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENSE, WAS CLOSELY WATCHING AN OPPONENT TO CONVERT THE TRIAL INTO A DEBATE OF THE POLITICAL QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, WITH THE INTENT, OF COURSE, OF OBSCURING THE ISSUE BY AN APPEAL.

ANIMALS IN SLEEP

All Sorts of Odd Postures, From Heads Down to Heads Up.

ONLY MAN LIES ON HIS BACK.

Standing During Slumber Is Not Uncommon Among Animals, and Sometimes One Leg Serves as a Support. Poses of the Sloths and the Lemurs.

Sleep indeed is a "gentle thing." It is the supreme form of rest. Our notions of rest during sleep, however, are likely to be a little upset when we come to survey the different postures assumed by various animals during sleep.

To begin with the human race. The majority of mankind probably sleep lying upon the right or left side of the body and with the knees drawn up toward the chin. But certain African tribes, for example, lie upon the back with the head, or rather the back of the neck resting on a bar of wood supported on two short pillars.

The elephant, apparently invariably, and the horse commonly sleep standing. This is really astonishing. Aside from the apparent difficulty of maintaining the balance of the body during these long periods of unconsciousness, one would have supposed that a recumbent position in the case of both these animals was imperative. Cattle and their kind commonly sleep lying down and during many hours of the day they lie down, as when chewing the cud.

More curious still there are creatures which invariably sleep hanging head downward suspended by their hind feet. The bats afford a case in point. Among the birds we meet with the same strange habit in the little hanging parrots of India and the Malayan region. In this they differ from all other birds, which invariably sleep with the head turned tailward over the back and the beak thrust in among the feathers between the wing and the body, not under the wing, as is commonly believed. No explanation has ever been offered to account for this strange habit. It is followed even by the penguins, wherein the feathers are so short as to fail completely to cover even the back. Owls are, perhaps, the only exception to the rule.

And, by the way, the only other animals which thus turn the head backward after this fashion during sleep are certain peculiar tortoises known as "side-necked" tortoises. Certain birds sleep while resting on one leg. This curious pose is well seen in long-legged birds like storks and gulls. Ducks generally sleep on open water, and to avoid drifting southward, and therefore into the danger zone, they keep constantly paddling with one foot, so that the body always is circling round the chosen sleeping area.

The sloths sleep suspended by their feet and the head tucked in between the forelegs. The no less remarkable African pottos, or slow lemurs, assume a similar pose, but they attach themselves to a vertical instead of a horizontal bough, so that the body rests with the head upward. No animal save man sleeps on his back.

Some animals are said never to sleep and this because the eyes are never closed. The hares, snakes and fishes are commonly supposed to enjoy this unenviable distinction. The notion is, however, quite erroneous. While and their kin are often quoted as sleepless creatures. It is supposed that if they made this mistake they would promptly drown!

As a rule darkness induces sleep. With many animals, however, the reverse is the case, as with the bats and owls, for example. This reversal of the usual order has been brought about by the nature of the feeding habits.

Finally one comes to the question, Where does sleep begin? This is by no means easily answered. One is inclined to draw the line at the insects. But since all living things—plants as well as animals—display periodical states of quiescence, perhaps we shall be near the truth in regarding sleep as universal among living things. In the case of plants it is enforced by darkness, save in the case of many bacteria and fungi, which, like evil deeds, grow under the cover of darkness.—Illustrated London News.

HUGO'S WORKSHOP.

His Carpenter's Bench and the Shavings That Fell From It.

A graphic description of a visit to Victor Hugo in Guernsey and of his quaint home there is given by the late Sir William Butler in his autobiography.

"Of the many curious things to be seen in Hauteville House the master's sleeping room was the strangest. He had it built on the roof between two great blocks of chimneys. You ascended to his workshop bedroom by stairs which somewhat resembled a ladder. Quite half of the room was glass, and the view from it was magnificent. The isles of Jethou and Sark were in the middle distance, and beyond lay many a mile of the Norman coast. Alderney lay to the north, and beyond it one saw the glistening windows of the triple lighthouses on the Casquet rocks and still more to the right the high ridges overlooking Cherbourg. The bed was a small camp bedstead, with a table on one side of it and a small desk of drawers on the other, with pens, ink and paper always within reach.

"Near the bed stood a small stove, which he lighted himself every morning and on which he prepared his cafe au lait. Then work began at the large table which stood in the glass alcove a few feet from the foot of the bed. This work went on till it was time to dress and descend to déjeuner in the room used for that purpose on the ground floor. As the sheets of writing paper were finished they were numbered and dropped on the floor to be picked up, arranged and put away in the drawer desk at the end of the morning's labor. He called the writing table his 'carpenter's bench' and the leaves which fell from it his 'shavings.'

"It was at this table and in this airy attic that most of the great work of his later life was done. Here were written 'Les Miserables,' 'Les Travailleurs de la Mer' and many volumes of poetry."

A Military Secret.

The plebe, sitting on the monument beside the first class man, looked across the river from West Point to Constitution Island. The plebe was inquisitive. He wanted to know what the government intended to use Constitution island for. The first class man coughed discreetly, blushed and looked around him carefully for eavesdroppers.

"It isn't generally known," he said, "but you're a cadet now. If the signal corps experiments go through successfully they'll use it as an aviary." His voice dropped mysteriously.

"For birds, eh?" said the plebe.

"Carrier pigeons?"

"Not exactly," answered the knowing one. "They'll be pigeots, as they call 'em—cross between a carrier pigeon and a parrot—to carry verbal messages, you know. Don't tell."

And the plebe didn't.—New York Post.

Not Very Far.

"Here's a dollar back that I marked and put into circulation only day before yesterday. Surprising, eh?"

"Oh, I don't know. A dollar doesn't go very far these days."—Judge.

COMMISSIONERS TAKE ACTION TO REBUILD FAYETTE ROADS

Adopt Resolution to Let Voters Decide Whether 2 Mill Levy Will be Made Each Year.

WOULD PROVIDE SOME $400,000 IN 5 YEARS

Amount Expected to Place Highways in Tip-Top Condition For Years to Come, and Voters Will Decide at Election to be Called by Deputy State Supervisors of Elections Board.

At a special session of the county commissioners, Friday evening, a resolution was adopted calling for an election at which Fayette county taxpayers will decide whether an extra levy of 2 mills shall be levied for a period of five years, in order to provide funds sufficient to place the highways throughout the county in tip-top condition.

The resolution adopted provides for a two mill levy, which it is estimated, would bring in about $80,000 each year to rebuild Fayette roads. If the resolution is approved by the voters, then each taxing district will benefit by the fund, and highways all over the county will be rebuilt and modernized to prevent rapid wear.

The Deputy State Supervisors of Elections will, at an early date, decide when the election shall be held, and, in all probability, the date set will be the same as the general election this fall.

The resolution adopted by the commissioners, is as follows:

BE IT RESOLVED by the County Commissioners of Fayette county, O., that the amount of taxes that may be raised for the improvement of public roads and highways within said county by the levy of taxes at the maximum rate authorized by sections 5649-2 and 5649-3 of the General Code within its taxing district, will be insufficient and that it is expedient to levy taxes for said purpose at a rate in excess of such rate and that it will require an increase of rate of two mills, above the maximum rate of taxation for the period of five years for said purpose; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be certified to the Deputy State Supervisor of Elections of Fayette county, Ohio, for further proceedings, according to law.

Done this 28th day of August, 1914
LOUIS PERRILL,
EDWIN WEAVER,
County Commissioners of Fayette Co.
Commissioner Brown, who favors the resolution, is in Missouri at the present time.

NO MORE SHINERS ON COURT HOUSE LAWN

In response to a great many complaints lodged with them, the county commissioners Friday afternoon took action whereby the janitor was to be notified to keep all trespassing shoe shining stands off the court house lawn after today.

This will mean that all shining stands now on the lawn must seek other location, and that the lawn will be kept free from shining stands in the future, and its beauty will not be marred as heretofore.

No permission had been given for shining stands on the lawn, it is claimed, and no fee was paid to either the county or city.

MAY PAVE SIDEWALK ON PAINT STREET

If sufficient funds can be obtained the City Board of Education will soon begin the work of paving the sidewalk along the school grounds on Paint street.

A great deal of complaint has been lodged with the Board on the condition of the walk, and the paving may be taken up and completed this fall, and if not this fall, next spring is expected to witness the work, both on Paint and Temple, where the sidewalks are in bad condition.

CONSERVATORY RE-OPENS.
Mrs. Eldora Stinson will re-open the Stinson Conservatory the first of September.

LACK OF FUNDS PROVES PUZZLER

With an obligation of $600 incurred last year, hanging over the Bloomingburg School district, that district is probably in the worst condition financially than any other in the county, and the Board of Education is now facing the problem of how to conduct school for several months on approximately $800, minus the $600.

Under the taxing limit it is claimed that the greatest amount available for paying salaries to teachers, janitor and for other expenses, the amount from the August Settlement of taxes will not exceed $800, and that no more will be available until next February, unless the same method of conducting the schools as adopted last year when $600 was borrowed, is taken.

Out of the apportionment of the August Settlement five teachers must be paid salaries; one janitor must receive compensation, and incidental expenses must be met. This, together with obligation already pending, is what is troubling the Bloomingburg Board of Education.

LOCAL CHURCHMEN ELECTED TO OFFICE

At the annual Clinton Baptist Association, held at Vigo, Rev. A. W. West was elected the church moderator and Mr. Harry Wood, president of the B. Y. P. U.

Attending the association as representatives of the First Baptist church of this city, were Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wood; Misses Ida Hays, Mabel Briggs, Nina West and Mrs. Janes, of Jeffersonville. Miss Golda Baughn was the delegate from the Sugar Creek church.

RAINS BRING RELIEF AND WATER IS NOW PLentiful

Streams Are Filled and the Corn Crop and Fall Pasture Are Guaranteed—Unsanitary Creek Flushed—City Water Supply Should Now be Ample to Meet Demands.

The continued rains—just what Fayette county has been demanding to insure complete maturing of the corn crop and plenty of fall pasture, as well as replenishing wells everywhere, have been more than pleasing to everyone, and mean much financially to Fayette farmers.

In addition to the above, the rains have caused a marked flow in the various streams of the county, with the result that the accumulated filth has been moved out and is now being carried into streams lower down.

In this city Paint creek has risen to a point where the long accumulated sewage is on the move, and as a result the sanitary conditions are expected to become decidedly better in and about the city.

In some parts of the county the rain at times reached almost a cloudburst, and fields were covered with water and streams jumped out of bank within a remarkable short time.

Scores of wells in all parts of the county had become dry, and many other wells, which had never before been pumped dry, had reached a point where they furnished barely enough water for use about the home where located.

The rains have been sufficient to guarantee an ample supply of water in this city, as the surface wells are now filled and Paint creek is full.

For many weeks the water supply has not been abundant, and pressure has been remarkably low—so low that much of the time sufficient water was not available above the first floors of business blocks.

RAIN STOPS WORK ON THE HIGHWAYS

The work of repairing the highways of the county has been stopped temporarily by the continue rains, but early next week the work will be resumed once more.

Next week the work of placing 300 loads of gravel on the Prairie pike in Union township, will be taken up. Supt. Elba Wilson has this year placed some 2,000 yards of gravel and stone on the roads of Union township, but there is still urgent need of much work, particularly on the Wilmington pike, where the road is all but worn out.

FUNERAL SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

Despite the downpour of rain the funeral services of Mrs. Alonzo Wilson, held at Sugar Grove church Friday afternoon, were largely attended, the gathering of friends and relatives in itself a high testimonial to the high esteem in which Mrs. Wilson had been held by all who knew her.

Rev. George Creamer conducted an impressive service, the church choir furnishing the music.

Messrs. Scott Fisher, George Moore, W. E. Sturgeon, Harry King, Luther Cockerill and Orville Cockerill, of Seattle, Wash., acted as pall-bearers.

The floral remembrances were very beautiful. Among the special designs were a spray of roses and asters from the Sugar Grove church and one from the Sunday school; from the Sunday school classes of Mrs. Harry Silcott and Miss Ivah Haines, spray purple asters; from Sugar Grove W. C. T. U., white lilies; matrons of Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, crescent of galaxy leaves and asters.

Relatives coming from a distance for the funeral were the aged parents of Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. McLaren, of Samantha; her brother, Roy McLaren, of Wilmington; sister, Mrs. Elton, with her husband, Supt. Elton, of the O. S. & S. O. Home; sister, Mrs. Jess Batson, and Mrs. Batson, from Blanchester; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, Mr. H. O. Wilson, Misses Sarah and Olive Wilson, of Greenfield.

The following obituary was read by Rev. Creamer:

OBITUARY.
Susan McLaren was born November 10, 1859, died August 25, 1914, aged 54 years, 9 months and 15 days.

On the 11th of November, 1891, she was united in marriage to Alonzo Wilson. Of this union were born four children, Ruth, Wilbur, Marguerite and Homer, who with the husband, the aged father and mother and five brothers and sisters, are left to mourn their loss.

In January, 1885, she united with the Friends' church, but had recently given her letter to the M. E. church at this place. She was also a valued member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Her mother being for many years an invalid, she early took upon herself the responsibility of the home and the care of the younger brothers and sisters.

The same unselfish devotion that characterized her young life continued through all her years.

No task was too difficult for her to undertake, no sacrifice too great for her to make for the sake of those she loved.

Truly, it may be said of her, "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed."

Endowed with courage for every trial, patience for every duty, she had sympathy for the sorrowing, forgiveness for the erring, and charity for all.

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved wife and mother.

Innocent Old Age.

"Youthful innocence" is one of those expressions which is untrue so far as criminals are concerned. It is a remarkable fact that a criminal is at his worst when he is young, and the older he becomes the better the life he leads.

Criminal statistics show, as a matter of fact, that the most virtuous age of the average wrongdoer is between fifty and sixty. It is in the very earliest part of their careers, between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one, that men and women criminals are at their worst. From twenty-one to old age they gradually improve.

This also goes to prove another remarkable fact about criminals, and that is that marriage helps to reform a man or woman. At the average age at which most people marry there is a remarkable drop in criminal statistics.

Between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one—the time when a man is at his worst, criminally speaking—are just those years when a child is breaking away from its parents and is allowed to go free.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Story of Stevenson.

After one of Dumas' plays which he saw presented in Paris and in which a man employs an unworthy stratagem against a woman Robert Louis Stevenson wrote:

"I came forth from that performance in a breathing heat of indignation. On the way down the Francis stairs I trod on an old gentleman's toes, whereupon, with that suavity which so well becomes me, I turned about to apologize and on the instant, repenting me of that intention, stopped the apology midway and added something in French to this effect: 'No. You are one of the persons who have been applauding that piece. I retract my apology.'"

"Said the old Frenchman, laying his hand on my arm and with a smile that was truly heavenly in temperance, irony, good nature and knowledge of the world. 'Ah, monsieur, vous etes bien jeune' (Ah, sir, you are very young)."

In Social Circles

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Homer Frank DeWeese, of St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Lola Musgrave, of Belling, Mont., on Wednesday, August 26th.

The announcement elicits much interest in this city, the former home of the bridegroom.

Mr. DeWeese is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William DeWeese and has been connected with the Aluminum Cookware Utensil Co., of St. Louis, since graduating from the Ohio Wesleyan university five years ago. He was first with the Pittsburg branch of the company, but is now with the main office at St. Louis.

The bride is a talented musician, a graduate of several musical schools, and resigned as director of music in the Belling schools to wed Mr. DeWeese.

The young couple are now on a wedding trip through Yellowstone National Park, Denver, and other cities of the west, and will visit the bridegroom's parents in this city before going to their home in St. Louis. Formerly a bright and popular member of Washington's younger circles, congratulations galore await the coming of Mr. DeWeese and his bride.

In compliment to her guest, Miss Pauline Joseph, of Columbus, Mrs. Emma Bush Coffman charmingly entertained a dozen young girls with a picnic supper Friday evening. The incessant rain necessitated changing the original plans for a picnic on the lawn, but the indoor picnic with its delicious "eats", served picnic fashion, proved just as enjoyable as if the sun had been shining.

August lilies and clusters of zenias adorned the rooms.

Participating in the affair were Miss Lena Thompson, of Indianapolis; Misses Dorothy Saxton, Mary Culhan, Carrie Willis, Nina Dahl, Helen Baker, Ruth Parrett, Ada Woodward, Lillian Davis, Margaret Mark.

Mrs. Coffman also entertained a few additional guests of her personal friends.

Among the week's social events Mr. Maurice and Miss Faye Williams delightfully entertained in honor of their cousin, Mr. Earl F. Black, of Indianapolis.

The lawn and plaza were beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns, the color scheme of white and yellow being artistically carried out.

At the door, Miss Williams and Miss Pauline Dale received the guests. About 15 couples enjoyed the evening's entertainment of music, dancing and games. Assisting the hostess in the serving of a dainty three-course luncheon were Miss Coleman and Mrs. Williams.

Out-of-town guests were Misses Carrie L. Schrock and Myra Eutsler, of Greenfield; Miss Mary Price, of Columbus; Messrs. Otho and Clare Culberson, of Milledgeville.

Miss Agatha Skinner, of Greenfield, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. B. W. Wigginton.

Miss Mary Craig leaves Monday for Shelbyville, Ill., to be the guest of Mrs. Roy Dove.

Miss Mariellen Wigginton is the week-end guest of Miss Erma Oxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Nell Lane, of Cambridge, O., is the guest of Mrs. D. H. Rowe and daughter, Mrs. Mart Morris, of Bloomingburg, enroute to Atlanta, Ga., to spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cockerill and little daughter, of Seattle, Wash., who have been visiting Mr. Cockerill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cockerill, south of town, left Saturday for Dayton, where they will spend Sunday at the home of Dr. Willard Cockerill and leave the first of the week for Mrs. Cockerill's home in Illinois. Mr. Cockerill returns to Washington State university in a week, leaving his family in Illinois until October.

Ervin Evans and Ralph Sams, of Hillsboro, were guests in this city.

Mr. J. Star Smith is a business visitor in Columbus today.

Miss Ethel Calvert and Miss Olive Schryver left Saturday on a two weeks' trip to Chicago, Mackinac and Detroit.

Mr. Carroll McCrea, political editor of the Toledo Blade, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McCrea.

Mrs. Luella Herbert is down from Columbus visiting relatives.

Mr. H. K. Stewart was a business visitor in Columbus the past two days.

Mrs. James Ludden and daughter have returned to their home in Jackson after a visit at the home of Mr. Martin Hillery.

JUDGMENT IN SUM OF $2,000 ASKED

Thomas C. Welsh, attorney of Morrow, representing the Morrow National Bank, Friday afternoon, filed suit in common pleas court in which R. L. LaFollette, of Bloomingburg, is made defendant, the plaintiff asking judgment in the sum of $2,000 with interest at 6 per cent.

The suit was filed on promissory notes; one for $500, bearing date of January 21, 1914, and the second for $1,500, dated January 17, 1914, and bearing 6 per cent interest. Both notes are payable on demand, and are signed only by the defendant.

The action is the result of money obtained from the bank while the defendant was engaged in the construction of a school building at Morrow.

STING OF HORNETS NEARLY PROVES FATAL

While going from his residence to the pike with a basket of eggs intended for the huckster, former county sheriff Wm. Anderson of Idaho, was attacked by an army of angry hornets and severely stung about the face, arms and body.

His cries summoned aid and he was hurriedly taken home where everything possible was done to alleviate the suffering due to the sting of the savage species of wasp.

Medical aid was hastily summoned and for a time it was thought that Mr. Anderson's life was in danger. Two daughters, Mrs. John Peniston and Mrs. Will Schausell who reside in this city were apprised of their father's condition and both left early Sunday morning for his bedside. Mr. Anderson, however, withstood the poison and shock of the stings nobly and rallied with sufficient strength to bring him through. He is doing nicely at present and in a few days will feel no effects from his narrow escape.—Waverly Watchman.

Kindness of the Boss.

Little Tommy, who was about knee high to a half pint, was employed by a busy broker. One afternoon the broker was sitting at his desk trying to collect his thoughts as well as some coin when he suddenly looked up and signaled Tommy to draw near.

"Tommy," said the boss, digging down into his jeans, "here's a fifty-cent chunk of silver. Take it and hustle off to some vauvauville show."

"Thank you very much, sir," gratefully responded Tommy, freezing fast to the coin. "That's what I call being some good to a poor kid."

"Don't think that I'm being good to you," was the quick rejoinder of the boss. "I want you to learn a new tune. I can't stand the one you've been whistling for two months any longer."—Exchange.

THE STUDY OF WORDS.

It's a Helpful Scheme to Use Your Dictionary Every Day.

Writing an article, "Treasure in Books," in the Woman's Home Companion, Laura Spencer Porter gives the following excellent advice about the advantages to be gained from the study of words:

"The study of words—it may sound to you a dry thing, yet I promise you it is not; very far from it.

"And this brings me to suggest that the habit of one of the great writers of studying carefully from a good dictionary five words each day is one from which we might all of us get a good deal of profit. Or take a good book of synonyms, for instance, and learn from it each day five words somewhat similar, comparing and weighing carefully the meanings and values of them.

"Notice the degrees of force in the following: To dislike, to hate, to loathe, to detest, to abhor. Each note struck is a little stronger, higher, we might say, like an ascending crescendo scale. So to instruct, to teach, to educate, are each quite different in meaning, with a great nicety of difference. So, rebuke, reprimand, censure, blame, are all of one color, but of how different shades of meaning. So, too, misfortune, calamity, disaster; so, weak, feeble, decrepit, and what delicate difference between fame and renown or feminine and womanly and womanish."

Colors of Rainbows.

Violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red are the colors of the rainbow. Most are sure of that. It is true, however, of only a very few rainbows. The colors of rainbows vary with their width, and their width varies with the size of the raindrops, big drops producing narrow bows with bright clearly defined colors, small drops producing wide bows with pale colors. Here are the colors as generally seen: (1) When the raindrops average one millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange, light red, dark red; (2) when the drops average three-tenths of a millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange; (3) when the drops average one-tenth of a millimeter, very pale violet, violet, whitish blue, whitish green.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR'S CLAIM

Says the Kaiser's Troops Will Make a Determined Stand on the Vistula River—Protest Against Censorship Over Wireless Stations to Be Renewed—Raids of Zeppelin Airships. Germany Not After a Loan.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, left here for New York, where he will remain until next week. He will return to Washington for a conference with President Wilson at the White House next Thursday, at which the ambassador is expected to renew his protest against the censorship over wireless stations which prevents him communicating confidentially with his government.

Ambassador Von Bernstorff denied the charge that the German government had violated the Hague convention in bombarding Antwerp from a Zeppelin airship. "Antwerp is a fortified city," he said. "It is therefore liable to bombardment."

The ambassador declared that the reports of Russian successes in eastern Germany are much exaggerated. He said that the reported battles were merely outpost skirmishes and that the Germans will make a determined stand at the Vistula river.

It is admitted here by officials of the German embassy that the garrison at Kiauchau, China, will be vanquished eventually by the Japanese, although the 2,000 Germans composing the garrison will make a formidable defense of the port, aided by the modern guns mounted on steel turrets.

Ambassador Von Bernstorff declared that he had had conferences while in New York recently with James Speyer over the financial situation which has resulted partly from the cutting of the German cable. He denied reports that Germany was endeavoring to raise a war loan of $500,000,000 in this country.

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels; feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation; falling or displacement of pelvic organs; causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles; painful or irregular periods; catarrhal conditions and discharges; extreme nervousness; depressed spirits; melancholy; desire to cry; fear of something evil about to happen; creeping feeling along the spine; palpitation, hot flashes; weariness; sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes; pain in the left breast; or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers post-paid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

ENGLAND'S FUTURE RULER

Prince of Wales is Lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards.

WOULD STEP BETWEEN

Paris, Aug. 29.—Germany is pushing forward against the French at Arras in a strongly developed flanking movement. France is hurrying reinforcements to enable her troops at Arras to hold their present defenses. Success of the German flanking maneuvers would leave all northern France at the mercy of the Kaiser and would threaten to sever French communication with England. The second line of the defense of the allies on French soil is under tremendous pressure by the full force of 1,200,000 German invaders.

French and British troops repulsed an attack of Germans in superior numbers in northeastern France.

TO CUT OFF ENGLAND

Amiens, Aug. 29.—The situation here in the north of France appears to be very grave. Chians appeared at Donal and were also seen around Arras. The Germans are undoubtedly making straight across the country to Abbeville, on the road to Dieppe. This will cut off Pas de Calais and completely sever the railway and telegraphic communication with England.

PLAN TO MEET RUSS

Berlin, Aug. 29.—Russia's advance in East Prussia will be checked quickly by energetic measures now under way, the war office announces. Reserve divisions are being hurried to the front. The German army will give battle in force when the Russians come into contact with the first line of German forts.

Under the Green Light.

Cube sugar and ivory piano keys are inspected under the ghastly greenish rays of mercury vapor lamps with greater speed and accuracy than can be attained in ordinary daylight. Any impurity in sugar manifests itself by changing the white to a shade of yellow. To detect impurities, plates of the crystallized sugar one inch thick are examined by a man looking through them toward a mercury vapor lamp of the kind which is a familiar adjunct of the galleries of postcard photographers. When thus viewed, according to the Electrical World, the yellow impurities stand out clearly in the bluish green light. The color of ivory varies from the outside to the center of the tusk to such an extent that manufacturers sort the pieces into sixteen different shades. Formerly this sorting could be done only in bright daylight, but with the light of the mercury vapor lamp grading can be done without limitation at any hour of the twenty-four.

G. O. P.'S LAND ON WAR BILL

Frustrate Plan to Put Measure
Through the House.

Washington, Aug. 29.—An unexpected attack on the administration bill providing that the federal government shall assume all marine risks incident to the European war frustrated the plans of the Democratic leaders to put the measure through the house. The attack was led by Republican leaders, who are opposed to the bill on the ground that it might put the United States where it was charged by one or other of the belligerents with vacating its position as a neutral.

In a speech in which he showed more temper than usual, Representative Underwood, Democratic leader, denied that the passage of the bill would lead to violations of the neutrality proclamation, and he characterized the Republican opponents of the measure as "little Americans."

Mr. Stevens (Minn.), a Republican leader, made the principal speech in opposition. He said ships were available to carry American goods but that trade had been interrupted owing to the failure up to date of the various European governments to reach a satisfactory agreement with the United States on the question of money exchanges.

Uncovered by the Wind. "In the year 1793," says an old chronicle, "the waters of the Rio de la Plata were forced in the month of April by a most violent current of wind to the distance of ten leagues, so that the neighboring plains were entirely inundated, and the bed of the stream was left dry. A number of ships which had been sunk in the river for upward of thirty years were uncovered and, among others, an English vessel which was cast away in 1762. Several persons repaired to the bed of the river, on which they could walk without wetting their feet, and returned laden with silver and other riches, which had been long buried under the water. The phenomenon obtained for three days, at the end of which the wind ceased, and the water returned with great violence to its native bed."

RENTED SCENERY.

It Was a Parisian's Idea, and It Succeeded the Thrifty Peasants.

M. Georges Moreau one beautiful day, in the course of a walk at Villiers-Saint-Benoist, greatly admired three magnificent oaks which towered from the edge of a field.

"You'll not see 'em much more, citizen," growled the owner of the land. "They make too much shade. I'm going to cut them down."

"What a sacrilege! Cut down those magnificent trees! Better rent them to me."

"What'll you do with them?" "I shall look at them as I pass by. Will you give to me for 15 francs a year the right to admire them?"

"Agreed! It's only a Parisian who could have such a funny idea!"

The story spread abroad, and now whenever M. Moreau takes a walk in that district the peasants hail him with: "Hey, citizen, will you rent those trees there of me? If not I'll cut 'em down. Yes or no? One, two, three?"

M. Moreau yields and pays to save the lives of the trees that delight his view. The little birds would be ungrateful did they not salute with their most harmonious roulades the preserver of their nests.—Cri de Paris.

DUCKING A SCOLD.

Punishment a Long Tongue Used to Win in Old England.

It is interesting in these days of woman's rights and woman's progress to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors—in fact, by the whole village—to the nearest pond, and the greener and slimmer the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the ducking stool, and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely pinioned.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half-drowned woman was raised to the surface again to the jeers and laughter of the onlookers it can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was as penitent a woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home, a sadder and wiser woman until the next time.—London Tit-Bits.

Saving Trouble.

When Bobbie went to see his grandmother he was much interested in whatever went on in the kitchen. One day she said to him: "I'm going to make you a nice little pie in a sauce, all for yourself. Don't you think I'm pretty good to take so much trouble?" Bobbie pondered. "Grandma," he said at length, "mother told me not to be a bother, and if it's going to be any trouble you can just as well make my pie reg'lar size."—Exchange.

SPORT LETTER

Cincinnati, August 28, 1914.

Where is all this first place excitement in the National League going to end? Here it is less than seven weeks to the close of the season and the matter of the pennant still is an open bet, with four teams in the running for the big honors. The past week has seen a decided advance on the part of Boston, St. Louis and Chicago, and a drop on the part of New York, with the result that the Beane went to a tie with Giants on Sunday, with St. Louis only one game behind the two leaders, and the Chicago within striking distance of the other three. The present week promises to see a break in this tense situation, as the four leaders will be playing each other during all of that time, and it is certain that some one will tumble off the perch. Meanwhile the National League race, as a whole, is the tightest that this old organization ever has witnessed, with the eight teams bunched within one hundred points on Monday, making it possible for even the tail-enders at this time to take the lead before the end of the season, although no one looks for such a condition to eventuate.

Manager Herzog is pursuing his building-up policy for the Reds with unwonted vigor. During the past few days he has added Pitcher Fahrner of Dayton; First Baseman Graham, of Roanoke, and Outfielder Killefer, of Minneapolis, to the team's line-up. These men, and a number of others who are on their way to join the Reds, will be given every opportunity to display their fine points between now and the close of the season. Manager Herzog realizes that this is the time to see these recruits at their best, and at the same time to offer the local followers of the game the opportunity of studying the youngsters under most favorable conditions. The Reds will start next season with fewer experiments than any other team in the league for the simple reason that Manager Herzog will do practically all his experimenting this fall.

So enthusiastic are local followers of the game over the showing made by Manager Herzog that a movement has been started to present the hustling leader of the Reds with a testimonial, expressive of the appreciation of the loyalty and ability shown during the season by the Reds' new boss. The date for the presentation of the testimonial has been set for Sunday, September 13, on which occasion there will be a double-header between the Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals. The Reds, by the way, have been largely instrumental in keeping down the percentage of the Cards, so that this double-header, as well as single Sunday game between the Reds and Huggins' men on September 6, is certain to draw large audiences. The final appearance of an eastern team on the local lot is set for next Sunday, when the Phillies bid farewell for the year.

Cincinnati, through the Chamber of Commerce, has put in a bid for the 1916 Olympic games, should it be decided inexpedient to hold these contests in Berlin. Cincinnati offers excellent facilities for all the events, and is particularly happy in the matter of a Marathon course over its many hills, and for the aquatic events in the Ohio river pool formed by the government dam at Fern Bank, which gives the city a lake, twenty miles in length, with an average depth of nine feet, right at its very doors. As yet no decision has been reached to change the location of the games for 1916, but if a change is announced, Cincinnati will be found fighting for the honor of entertaining the world's athletes.

There is some talk of holding a series of stock car speed trials in connection with the annual automobile show of the Cincinnati Automobile Dealers' Association in this city from October 3 to 10. At that time of year the roads in this vicinity are in the best possible shape, due to the repairing and oiling that has been done preparatory to the long winter campaign. However, even if this suggestion of road races should not be carried out, the show itself will offer the greatest attractions ever gathered at a motor car exhibit in the middle west, outside of Chicago. More cars and a greater amount of space are promised than at any previous local show.

No wonder Jack Johnson wants to go into the French army. Jack would as soon be shot as be broke—and according to reports from Paris the negro champion is financially strapped. It is said that his creditors seized all of the purse of $50,000 which he was to have received for going into the ring with Frank Moran and that the chickens he expected to buy with this amount still are cackling in the old home coop. With the war on, and the United States fight market barred to him, Johnson sure is in a bad way for his daily pork chops and trimmings.

DOGS IN ALASKA.

Carry Great Loads Over Snow That Would Not Hold a Man.

Dogs are surely the real thing for "mushing" in the cold country. To my mind they beat reindeer a mile. Most of them weigh less than 100 pounds, and they distribute their weight over their four feet, so that they can trot over a weak snow crust where a man would sink out of sight by breaking through the crust into the soft snow below. On a good level, smooth trail ten dogs can trot along with a ton of freight behind them, and 500 or 600 pounds is a fair load on poor trails.

A peculiar thing is that a twelve foot sled, twenty-two to twenty-four inches wide, with runners two and one-quarter inches wide, bearing a load of 600 to 800 pounds, will not sink through a snow crust that will not bear a man. This occurs because two runners two and one-quarter inches wide and twelve feet long give a large area of bearing on the crust. This, coupled with the motion that keeps the sled passing over all the time, accounts for the remarkable fact I am speaking of.

One of the greatest dangers in "mushing" is encountering water under the snow on the river ice in very cold weather or breaking through into hollow places where the stream has sunk away from under the ice. This is the most dangerous of all, and often when it happens a man is frozen to death before he can get to shelter or get up his tent and start a fire.—B. S. Rodey in Albuquerque Herald.

How It Happened.

"How did the accident happen?" asked the sympathetic friend.

"Well, I'll tell you," replied the man on crutches. "The automobile was going pretty fast, and all of a sudden we struck a wet place on the asphalt and there was a noise, and the doctor said, 'He'll be able to be around in about four weeks.'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Family Traits.

"If there's anything I enjoy," said Mr. Bliggins, "it's roaming around in outting clothes like a boy scout in the afternoon and learning the new dances to the evening."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "Isn't it remarkable how many parents nowadays take after their children?"—Washington Star.

STEVENSON'S LAMENT.

A Book He Couldn't Read and the Kind of Story He Wanted.

This, from the "Letters of R. L. Stevenson," shows his aversion to reading one of his own books and the kind of story for which he yearned:

To W. E. Henley: I send you a book which (or I am mistook) will please you—it pleased me. But I do desire a book of adventure—a romance—and no man will get or write me one. Dumas I have read and reread too often: Scott, too, and I am short. I want to hear swords clash. I want a book to begin in a good way—a book, I guess, like "Treasure Island," alas, which I have never read and cannot, though I live to be ninety. I would that some one else had written it! By all that I can learn it is the very book for my complaint. I like the way I hear it opens, and they tell me John Silver is good fun. And to me it is and must ever be a dream unrealized, a book unwritten. Oh, my sighs after romance or even Skeltery, and, oh, the weary age which will produce me neither!

"Chapter I.—The night was dark and cloudy, the ways foul. The single horseman, cloaked and booted, who pursued his way across Willesden common, had not met a traveler when the sound of wheels!"

"Chapter I.—'Yes, sir,' said the old pilot, 'he must have dropped into the bay a little afore dawn. A queer craft she looks.'"

"She shows no colors," returned the young gentleman musingly.

"They're a-lowering of a quarter boat, Mr. Mark," resumed the old salt. "We shall soon know more of her."

"Aye," replied the young gentleman called Mark, "and here, Mr. Seadriff, comes your sweet daughter, Nancy, tripping down the cliff."

"God bless her kind heart, sir," ejaculated old Seadriff.

"Chapter I.—The notary, Jean Rossignol, had been summoned to the top of a great house in the Isle St. Louis to make a will, and now, his duties finished, wrapped in a warm rugelauze and with a lantern swinging from one hand, he issued from the mansion on his homeward way. Little did he think what strange adventures were to befall him!"

That is how stories should begin.

The Philbuster's Cache.

Blood Money; a Tale.

What is:

Aunt Anne's Tea Cozy.

Almost Insulted.

Amid the lace bargains in one of the larger department stores the other day a shopper engrossed in thought set her little Japanese spaniel on the counter. One of the salesgirls, not seeing the little dog, threw a remnant of reduced lace over him and entirely submerged him. When the woman went to look for her pet he was not to be found, but several shrill yelps, accompanied by an upheaval of the lace, betrayed his presence. He was quickly rescued from his predicament, and the woman, showering kisses upon his moist, upturned nose, said, "Did they cover mamma's precious with cheap fifty cent lace?"

The salesgirl, who evidently had cultivated diplomacy, assured the dog's mistress that the lace had been reduced from $1 to 50 cents, and the woman took her pet away mollified.—Philadelphia Record.

Ready For Any Sacrifice.

Even when the London Times was sold at a high price its agony column was entertaining. Now that a copy of the journal costs only a penny the column is still more agonizing. Witness this advertisement:

"In order to save his aged parents from distress, gentleman (foreigner) wishes to sell himself for any purpose. Willing to do right away anything. I sincerely desire an offer."

If this cry had been uttered in the old days Satan would have appeared in a pleasing form and with courteous address waited on the gentleman in despair. Only a scribbled signature, only a penful of blood, would have been necessary, and the aged parents would have rolled in luxury. This is a sadly prosaic age.—Boston Herald.

Feasted on Candles.

Russian soldiers, according to the author of "Eat, Drink and Be Merry," esteem tallow candles a great luxury. He facetiously describes how they came across a huge store of them among the French baggage on the retreat from Moscow and summarily snuffed them out of existence. "Never were they consumed in such a style before. The enraptured warriors drew them across their mouths—like a bow across a fiddle—and left only the bare wicks as a proof of now easily their coverings, so necessary for lights, can be readily utilized for livers."

Literary Tragedy.

Ned—That was a hard blow to literature yesterday. Ted—What was that? Ned—Why, lightning struck a house, setting fire to a magazine in the cellar, which exploded, shattering the first and second stories and killing two authors who were at work on the third story.

A Roundabout Reply.

TRAVEL WITH A ROPE.

Be Sure You Have One Handy if You Take a Trip to Italy.

The following extracts from an article in the Woman's Home Companion explains why no one should travel in Italy without a rope:

"Let me urge the tourist not to fail to provide himself with a stout rope—a piece of clothesline is excellent—with which to tie up the trunk which is to go into the Italian baggage car. If you do not you may miss many train connections. It is a trick of the canny Italian baggage master.

"When you go to check or 'register' your trunk at the railway station this crafty robber will try to stick his fingers under the lock or under the staples at the sides. Then he will shrug his shoulders and tell you blandly that he cannot accept the trunk for registration, as it is not fastened securely enough and if the baggage man stole any of your effects while en route the railroad would be responsible. The trunk must be tied with a rope and sealed, he will tell you.

"You have no time to go rope hunting. You have to buy a rope from him. He charges you what he thinks he can make you pay. The price depends on how many minutes you still have to catch your train. Then he clips on a little leaden tag where the rope is knotted, and your trunk is officially sealed. It is a very serious offense to break this seal.

"Now, then, if your trunk is roped when it reaches the hands of the boss baggage man he is required at your request and upon payment of 2 cents to affix the official seal. So, as a last word, don't forget the rope!"

They All Think That.

"There goes a man who is sure I'm not doing my duty to my family."

"One of your neighbors?"

"No."

"Evidently a friend of an intimate friend of yours?"

"Wrong again. Not even an acquaintance."

"Who is he, then?"

"A life insurance agent."—Detroit Free Press.

The Thunder.

"Say, mamma," queried the small son of a local labor leader, "is it the thunder that strikes or the lightning?"

"The lightning, dear," was the reply.

"Oh, well," replied the youngster, "I suppose the thunder doesn't belong to the union."—Chicago News.

SIEGE GUNS OF WEATHER MAN REPULSE FOURTH REGIMENT

Flower of Ohio Infantry is Repeatedly Driven Back Into Camp by Merciless Peppering of Weather Man's Forces and Big Battle Is All One-Sided—Water Soaked Camp Becomes Very Uncomfortable to Defeated Soldiers.

"Dear Dad:—While I am writing this letter the water is pouring down the hill-side in torrents, and water is everywhere, making camp-life anything else but agreeable."

The above excerpt from a letter written back to this city by a member of Company M gives a definite idea of camp life at Maple Grove Friday and Friday night—to say nothing of previous days and Saturday morning.

The annual maneuvers of the Fourth regiment have been anything else but a complete success, although the boys have made the best of the continued unfavorable weather and have enjoyed themselves, notwithstanding the many downpours which drove them into camp and almost drove them out again.

Time after time the Fourth, thirsty for the taste of blood, anxious for the smell of gun-powder and eager for the fray, has been driven back into camp by the onslaught of the forces of the common enemy—the Weather Man.

In every direction the Fourth has turned, the Weather Man has turned his siege guns upon the disgruntled forces and they have fallen back into camp to await another opportunity to sally forth and complete their work before again having to face the forces of the Weather Man.

Friday afternoon during a breach in the clouds, the men marched out of camp and had proceeded a half mile or more when they were forced to retreat by a general attack of the elements. The rain coats carried by the men prevented them from being soaked to the skin.

Under the continual hammering of the elements, the Fourth remained in camp and the big battle, which was to last far into Friday night, was called off.

Whether the battle will be fought tonight, if the weather conditions permit, or whether the Fourth will break camp with about 40,000 rounds of unused ammunition, has not been ascertained.

Tomorrow is the last day of camp, and if the weather is good a dress parade and band concert will be on the program for Sunday afternoon, and early Monday morning, the order to break camp will be given and the many companies will scatter to their various homes.

JAPS ARE SPARRING

By Associated Press.

Tsing-Tau, Kiao Chow, August 29.—One of the forts threw a shell across the entrance of the bay yesterday afternoon at a small party of Japanese that had landed. The landing party departed immediately.

Six Japanese warships may be seen every day from the Tsing-Tau fortifications cruising back and forth beyond the range of the German guns. The Germans are continuing with energy their preparations against attacks by land. Mines are being placed and provided with electrical connections, and guns are being brought into position.

CURIOUS PIPEFISH.

The Males Have Pockets In Which They Carry Their Young.

The kangaroo has always seemed to have the monopoly of that convenient way of carrying its babies in a pouch, but it has been discovered that a fish has the same useful receptacle, which it uses for the same purpose. The pipefish, as it is called from the length of its jaws, has a pocket on the under side of its body nearly half its length. It is found in the male species only and is the only part of its body which is unprotected by large flat plates, which take the place of scales in its protective armor.

If a pipefish is taken from the water and its little ones shaken out of the pouch back into the water they always seem either unable or disinclined to run away. But if the father is placed in the water again all the small fish immediately swim back into the pouch. These curious little creatures have prehensile tails, which they use to hold on to the seaweed to protect themselves from being carried away by the tide. The pipefish is similar to the small eel, being about a foot in length and an inch in thickness. But, unlike the eel, it has a very long jaw and the peculiar defensive armor already mentioned.—New York Sun.

Facts Versus Fancies.

Richard Le Gallienne was sympathizing with a young writer whose book of poetry had been refused by twelve publishers.

"Real lovers of poetry," said Mr. Le Gallienne, "are unfortunately becoming rare. Too many people nowadays are like the judge."

"This judge was recommended by a poetic friend to read Shelley. The great man of the law said he supposed he ought to read a little poetry, and, having heard so much of Shelley, he would try him."

"And what do you think of it?" said his friend to the judge after he had waded through a few pages of "Epipsychion." "Isn't it beautiful?"

"Well, well—oh, yes. I daresay it is," said the judge. "But what I want to know is when are we going to get at the facts?"—Washington Star.

The Supreme Court.

The supreme court of the United States is supposed to be strictly non-political, free from all parties and above all parties. It was designed by the fathers of the constitution to act as the "governor" or "flywheel" of our system of government, maintaining justice and right in the midst of the wrangling factions and clashing interests. According to the theory, the supreme court is to know nothing but the constitution and the laws that are made in pursuance thereof and in every matter that is brought up before it to hold the balance even, regardless of everything else.—New York American.

MRS REA DIES IN NEW MEXICO

Mrs. Millard Rea, formerly of this county, but who has resided near Greenfield the past few years, died a few days ago at Rincon, New Mexico, and the remains have been shipped to Greenfield and interred in the cemetery at that place.

Mrs. Rea had been ill for many months, and last winter sought to regain her health by going to North Carolina. A few weeks ago Mr. Rea accompanied his wife to the home of her uncle in New Mexico, hoping that the change of climate would restore her health. He left her at the home of her uncle, and returned home, where a few days later he received word of his wife's death. She leaves a family of several children.

Your Congressman's Politics

Of course you know it, but do you know the politics of every other congressman in Ohio? Of every state senator and representative? Do you even know the names of them all? Isn't it possible that the information might be useful to you some day? And don't you think you'd like to know anyway? Or at least be able to look it up easily if you wanted to?

It takes less than one minute to find those names and the districts, and the party to which the men belong, in our 1914 OHIO ALMANAC, just issued.

And if you are not interested in the people who represent you and make most of the laws that govern you, there are 100,000 other facts that you WILL be interested in to be found in this splendid HANDBOOK, and all found with equal facility. There is not another book published which provides such source of information for you. If you don't own an Ohio Almanac you will have to go to the complicated original sources to find those things, just as we did to compile this book for you.

ROBBING THE COAL PILE.

Smoke That Goes Up the Chimney is Fuel Thrown Away.

For the benefit of any one who may not see the analogy between a robbed coal pile and a smoking chimney it may be briefly and simply explained.

The visible part in smoke is nearly all carbon, either as soot or cinder, and carbon is the principal combustible part of coal—i. e., the useful part, the part capable of yielding heat. Carbon completely burned forms an invisible gas, carbon dioxide; therefore whenever the gases from a stack show black they contain carbon, which indicates that complete combustion has not taken place in the boiler furnace.

In other words, all of the available heat in the coal has not been realized. It is the same as though the corresponding part of the coal fed into the furnace had been thrown away, for, although it has passed through the furnace, it has been thrown away up the stack beyond recovery. Is this, then, so very different from robbing the coal pile?

The owner who through ignorance allows conditions to exist which are not favorable to the most economical operation of his boiler furnaces, although he is unwittingly robbing himself, is nevertheless stealing from his own coal pile.—Power.

A Golf Outrage.

The Earl of Wemyss was on a five golf course on one occasion accompanied by an old caddy. His lordship got his ball on one occasion so near the hole that to play it was, as it appeared to him, superfluous. So he simply tipped it in with the toe of his boot.

The caddy revolted instantly, threw down the clubs and looked horrified. When he found words to speak it was to say, "Hang it, me lord, gowt's gowt!"

Act Charged to a German Commander to Cover Blunder of His Men—Arras Account of the Desperate Battle Resulting in Victory For German Arms.

By Associated Press.

Paris, August 29.—The French war office gave out the following official statement this afternoon: "The Russian army has completely invested Koenigsberg and occupied Allenstein, both in East Prussia. The Germans continue to retreat.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—via wireless to the Associated Press.—News of the defeat of five Russian army corps to the south of Allenstein is made public here today. It is regarded as encouraging and as greatly relieving the situation in East Prussia. It is said to insure the flank of the German position.

The Associated Press has been informed from official Austrian sources that the battles, which have been in progress for several days past, are expected to be decisive. Austrian troops are pursuing the Russians from Kraskin, about 20 miles north of the Galician frontier, in the direction of Lublin.

No news was received here today concerning the situation on the French frontier beyond a special dispatch declaring that the British defeat at St. Quentin was complete.

London, August 29.—According to reports in London, France has formed a new army of a quarter of a million men to take the offensive against the German right. This rumor, however, lacks confirmation.

Exhaustion on the part of the German troops and the consequent necessity of momentarily slackening their forward movement is offered in some quarters today as an explanation of the absolute silence which has veiled all the operations in northern France since the desperate struggle on Wednesday, when a quarter of a million of German soldiers tried to hack their way through the British lines held by less than half that number. Just as many other people, however, are convinced that the battle which Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, said on Wednesday was impending, is now in progress, and that the commanders are awaiting a decisive outcome before permitting anything to become public.

A dispatch to the Post from Terneuse, a seaport in the Netherlands, describing the sack of Louvain from what it claims to be an authoritative source, says many civilians were killed including young women, children, and the clergy. Their nationality it is declared did not save one English and one American clergyman. All the public buildings were destroyed.

London, August 29.—The official information bureau, in a statement regarding the destruction of the Belgian town of Louvain by the Germans and the German announcement that the inhabitants had fired on their troops, says:

"The assumption of the German commander was, under the circumstances, so wide of probability that it can only be supposed that, in the desire to conceal the facts, the first idea which occurred to him was seized upon as an excuse for an act, without parallel in the history of civilized people.

"Louvain has been utterly destroyed by one of the Emperor's commanders, in a moment of passion, to cover the blunder of his own men."

8 HOUR BATTLE

By Associated Press.

London, August 29.—The naval engagement between the British and Germans off Heligoland lasted about 8 hours, during which the fighting was sharp and terrible, according to a dispatch to the Evening News from Harwich. The correspondent says this description of the fight was given by crews of the British destroyers which took part in the engagement and have arrived at Harwich.

unhitch their horses from their own guns, mount them, and gallop after the Germans. Under a heavy fire the Russian cavalrymen went forward, captured the German guns and brought them back to their lines.

London, August 29.—According to the Antwerp correspondent of the Daily News, King Albert constantly mingles with his troops and was in their camp in the fighting around Malines. He was always at the point of the greatest danger, assisting and encouraging the men. He went among them freely, attired simply as a soldier, and his sympathetic conduct had a great effect on the Belgian troops.

London, Aug. 29.—The official information bureau gives out the following message received by the war office from Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces in France: "Will you kindly convey to the First Lord of the Admiralty the congratulations of the army in the field on the splendid naval success of yesterday."

Paris, Aug. 29.—Train service between Paris and Boulogne was suspended today until further notice. It is presumed that this step was taken because the allied armies are about to engage the Germans on or near the railroad line running into Boulogne.

London, August 29.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts made the declaration today that Great Britain in the present war would require hundreds of thousands of soldiers. The occasion of this statement was the review of a new regiment of 1,300 London business men.

ITALY ON THE VERGE OF WAR

Geneva, Switzerland, via Paris, August 29.—There is much talk on this side of the Italian border of Italy's reported preparation to join England and France against Germany and Austria. Italians in Switzerland have been called to the colors and it is reported here that the Italian fleet has been concentrating at a certain port on the Adriatic preparatory to joining the British and French squadrons before Trieste.

NAVAL LOSS DENIED

Peking, China, Aug. 29.—After an inquiry at Tsing-Tau the German Legation denies that the German torpedo boat destroyer "S-90" has been sunk.

A dispatch from Chefoo, China, last night said that the British torpedo boat destroyer Welland, had engaged and sunk the "S-90."

New York, Aug. 29.—With six inch guns mounted fore and aft; with every porthole blanketed and all lights extinguished, the White Star liner Adriatic, put into port in the darkness of the early morning today. She had aboard 1,762 passengers, nearly all Americans, who were in England at the outbreak of hostilities.

It is said that the vessel will go, with little delay, from here to Halifax to help carry Canadian volunteers across the sea.

NEW PICTURE OF KAISER WILHELM AND SECOND SON, PRINCE EITEL FREDERICK, IN THE FIELD

This new picture shows Kaiser Wilhelm and his second son, Prince William Eitel Frederick, in the field. The Kaiser is easily the man of the hour in this war, standing out as the one principal figure in the war of the nations. His son here shown is the tallest of the six. He is thirty-one years old, being a year younger than the crown prince.

London, Aug. 29.—Paris is preparing for the possibility of being whipped into an entrenched camp with the back of the allies' first line of defense on the Belgian frontier broken.

Taking advantage of the gap in the defense forces from St. Amand to Dunkirk on the coast, a German division, estimated at 70,000, is reported to have turned the extreme left of the French army and to have forced advance troops around Lille as far as Arras, 100 miles from Paris.

Berlin's report of general victories, uncontradicted by the French war office, indicates a break into French territory at Mezieres and the defeat of the British forces at Manbeuge, department of Nord.

Balked by the desperate fighting of the allies from striking quickly at the French capital through the valley of the river Meuse, the German army of the Moselle under Grand Duke Albrecht of Wurttemberg is reported to have pushed the English back of the river Sambre, in the departments of the Aisne and Nord, and to have planted a mighty wedge between the defensive armies of the east and south.

From a message sent out twenty-four hours ago by the French embassy, showing fighting on the line between Cambrai and Lecatun, it is apparent that the French have been driven back past their line of frontier fortresses to a point twenty miles behind that line. There is no longer any serious fortified obstacle between the German main advance and Paris. Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that the French ministry has resigned and reconstituted itself as a committee of public safety.

With the German army reported in precipitous retreat before the Russian invaders in East Prussia, the French war office announced that the Russians are making a vigorous offensive against the Austrians, and after winning two engagements near Lemburg are now only twenty miles from that important city in Galicia. The Germans are officially reported to be in active retreat toward Koenigsburg, the German stronghold in the north. Moved by the reverses of his soldiers in Prussia and the dangers of the inhabitants, Emperor William, as king of Prussia, telegraphed a special plea to his council of ministers to hurry forces to the relief of Prussia.

NORTH CAROLINA SAILS FOR TURKEY

Washington, Aug. 29.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels told callers that the United States cruiser North Carolina would sail today for Turkish waters. It was said at the navy department that no additional advices of an alarming character had been received from Turkey, but that pursuant to suggestions from the state department the North Carolina could now be spared for the Turkish mission.

Paris, Aug. 29.—Official reports of the situation at the front are considered satisfactory as showing the strategy of the allies, which, on the whole, has been directed towards stopping the rush of German masses of troops across the northern frontier and thus preventing the return of the chief mass of the German forces to cope with the advancing five Russian armies which are now penetrating Germany via East Prussia.

That this policy is succeeding is partly proved by the carnage which was registered in the official announcement. This stated that during five days of incessant fighting 7,000 German dead were found along an alignment of seven kilometers, or in other words, a dead soldier for every yard of ground.

Much of this deadly work was due to the French artillery, which is reported as butchering, rather than killing, whole bodies of the Germans.

Vichy, with its huge military hospital and its thirty hotels which have been turned into hospitals, is one of the principal ambulance centers. The others are in towns of the beautiful chateau country like Chartres and Angouleme or are scattered in different provinces like Nantes, Bourges, Agon and Dax. The nearest large center to Paris for wounded is at Versailles.

The nature of the wounds of the soldiers brought to the hospitals are not as serious as in former wars. They are chiefly in the legs and arms.

GERMAN ACTION AIDS AMERICANS

SAY ALLIES PENNEED UP

Washington, Aug. 29.—This dispatch, received by wireless from the Berlin foreign office, was given out at the German embassy here.

"As a result of the recent encounter the French and English north armies on the Sambre and the Meuse rivers have been surrounded by the German troops. The French east army was partly driven south. This prevented communication between the French east and north armies, while all the German armies are in contact from Cambrai to upper Alsace. The German cavalry has advanced to Ostend. The civilians of the Belgian town of Louvain perforce attacked German troops while fighting and were punished by the destruction of the city. Appearance of Zeppelins in Antwerp caused a panic in London. Reports from Copenhagen and Stockholm announce a grave crisis in the French government."

BRITISH VICTORS ON SEA

Battle Fought in the North Sea
Off Helgoland.

London, Aug. 29.—The admiralty officially announced that the British fleet sunk two German cruisers and two destroyers off Helgoland. The announcement says that a third cruiser was set afire and was left burning. According to the announcement, no British ship was lost in the battle and the British loss of life was not heavy. The British squadron was commanded by Rear Admiral David Beatty, who married in 1901 Miss Ethel Field, daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago. Rear Admiral Beatty formerly was naval secretary to the first lord of the admiralty. The admiralty further announced that the destroyer Weland has sunk the German destroyer S90 off the Chinese coast.

The report that Prince Albert, "the sailor prince," second son of King George, who was on the battleship Collingwood, had been attacked with appendicitis, is officially contradicted. It is said, however, that he has been transferred to a hospital ship.

The importance of the daring raid is the fact that the British fleet passed behind Germany's heavily armed outpost on Helgoland island and engaged the German mosquito fleet guarding the mouth of the Elbe and the entrance to the Kiel canal.

Then the opposing lawyer jumped up.

"If your honor please," he shouted, "I desire to inquire whether Abraham Lincoln is an attorney of record in this case?"

"I'll answer that," said Mr. Lincoln, the future president. "I am not, but I am too soft hearted to sit here and watch this young man overboard without throwing him a plank!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Peeling Onions For a Living.

The profession of onion peeling is not one that obtains much notice, yet there are at least 500 women in the east end of London earning their living by removing onion skins. With practice they can make 4 or 5 shillings per day. Often they have been peeling since childhood, daughters succeeding mothers. It is not a profession, you can learn in one lesson, for the skin must be removed by hand or the onion "juices" and is no use for pickling. The onions are always peeled in water. This is not to save the eyes of the peeler, but is done to keep the onion white.—London Express.

THE WAYSIDE SPRING.

The essence of the dew,
Brewed in hush o' night,
And stored by fairies in
Alembics silver bright.

This is what is found
Bubbling brightly up
Where a rocky heart
Is fashioned like a cup.

This is what the gods
In the ancient days
Drank, and after gave
The glory of their praise.

Never drink was brewed
In a secret cell

ANIMALS IN SLEEP

All Sorts of Odd Postures, From Heads Down to Heads Up.

ONLY MAN LIES ON HIS BACK.

Standing During Slumber Is Not Uncommon Among Animals, and Sometimes Only Leg Serves as a Support. Poses of the Sloths and the Lemurs.

Sleep indeed is a "gentle thing." It is the supremest form of rest. Our notions of rest during sleep, however, are likely to be a little upset when we come to survey the different postures assumed by various animals during sleep.

To begin with the human race. The majority of mankind probably sleep lying upon the right or left side of the body and with the knees drawn up toward the chin. But certain African tribes, for example, lie upon the back with the head, or rather the back of the neck resting on a bar of wood supported on two short pillars.

The elephant, apparently invariably, and the horse commonly sleep standing. This is really astonishing. Aside from the apparent difficulty of maintaining the balance of the body during these long periods of unconsciousness, one would have supposed that a recumbent position in the case of both these animals was imperative. Cattle and their kind commonly sleep lying down and during many hours of the day they lie down, as when chewing the cud.

More curious still there are creatures which invariably sleep hanging head downward suspended by their hind feet. The bats afford a case in point. Among the birds we meet with the same strange habit in the little hanging parrots of India and the Malayan region. In this they differ from all other birds, which invariably sleep with the head turned tailward over the back and the beak thrust in among the feathers between the wing and the body, not under the wing, as is commonly believed. No explanation has ever been offered to account for this strange habit. It is followed even by the penguins, wherein the feathers are so short as to fail completely to cover even the back. Owls are, perhaps, the only exception to the rule.

And, by the way, the only other animals which thus turn the head backward after this fashion during sleep are certain peculiar tortoises known as "side-necked" tortoises. Certain birds sleep while resting on one leg. This curious pose is well seen in long-legged birds like storks and gulls. Ducks generally sleep on open water, and to avoid drifting southward, and therefore into the danger zone, they keep constantly paddling with one foot, so that the body always is circling round the chosen sleeping area.

The sloths sleep suspended by their feet and the head tucked in between the forelegs. The no less remarkable African pottos, or slow lemurs, assume a similar pose, but they attach themselves to a vertical instead of a horizontal bough, so that the body rests with the head upward. No animal save man sleeps on his back.

Some animals are said never to sleep and this because the eyes are never closed. The hares, snakes and fishes are commonly supposed to enjoy this unenviable distinction. The notion is, however, quite erroneous. While and their kin are often quoted as sleepless creatures. It is supposed that if they made this mistake they would promptly drown!

As a rule darkness induces sleep. With many animals, however, the reverse is the case, as with the bats and owls, for example. This reversal of the usual order has been brought about by the nature of the feeding habits.

Finally one comes to the question, Where does sleep begin? This is by no means easily answered. One is inclined to draw the line at the insects. But since all living things—plants as well as animals—display periodical states of quiescence, perhaps we shall be near the truth in regarding sleep as universal among living things. In the case of plants it is enforced by darkness, save in the case of many bacteria and fungi, which, like evil deeds, grow under the cover of darkness.—Illustrated London News.

HUGO'S WORKSHOP.

His Carpenter's Bench and the Shavings That Fell From It.

A graphic description of a visit to Victor Hugo in Guernsey and of his quaint home there is given by the late Sir William Butler in his autobiography:

"Of the many curious things to be seen in Hanteville House the master's sleeping room was the strangest. He had it built on the roof between two great blocks of chimneys. You ascended to his workshop bedroom by stairs which somewhat resembled a ladder. Quite half of the room was glass, and the view from it was magnificent. The isles of Jethou and Sark were in the middle distance, and beyond lay many a mile of the Norman coast. Alderney lay to the north, and beyond it one saw the glistening windows of the triple lighthouses on the Casquet rocks and still more to the right the high ridges overlooking Cherbourg. The bed was a small camp bedstead, with a table on one side of it and a small desk chest of drawers on the other, with pens, ink and paper always within reach.

"Near the bed stood a small stove, which he lighted himself every morning and on which he prepared his coffee. Then work began at the large table which stood in the glass alcove a few feet from the foot of the bed. This work went on till it was time to dress and descend to déjeuner in the room used for that purpose on the ground floor. As the sheets of writing paper were finished they were numbered and dropped on the floor to be picked up, arranged and put away in the drawer desk at the end of the morning's labor. He called the writing table his 'carpenter's bench' and the leaves which fell from it his 'shavings.' "It was at this table and in this airy attic that most of the great work of his later life was done. Here were written 'Les Misérables,' 'Les Travailleurs de la Mer' and many volumes of poetry."

A Military Secret.

The plebe, sitting on the monument beside the first class man, looked across the river from West Point to Constitution Island. The plebe was inquisitive. He wanted to know what the government intended to use Constitution Island for. The first class man coughed discreetly, blushed and looked around him carefully for eavesdroppers.

"It isn't generally known," he said, "but you're a cadet now. If the signal corps experiments go through successfully they'll use it as an aviary."

"For birds, eh?" said the plebe.

"Not exactly," answered the knowing one. "They'll be pigeons, as they call 'em—cross between a carrier pigeon and a parrot—to carry verbal messages, you know. Don't tell."

And the plebe didn't.—New York Post.

Not Very Far.

"Here's a dollar back that I marked and put into circulation only day before yesterday. Surprising, eh?"

"Oh, I don't know. A dollar doesn't go very far these days."—Judge.

The Thoughtful Hour

There is a great pleasure in solitude also great strength.

Few men of modern times seem to have the desire or the opportunity to separate themselves from society for any length of time or to devote themselves very extensively to communion with their own thoughts. But the great men of all ages have loved solitude and the great men of all ages to come will love it.

In the mad rush and whirl of modern business life distorted views are so common they are almost regarded as normal. Certainly the end and aim of life is not acquiring houses, automobiles, gold coin, banking, stock keeping, farming and the hundred and one thousand things that go to make up our commercial and industrial organization and existence. If every man was to devote himself to self imposed isolation for one hour out of the twenty-four, giving himself up to thoughts other than his business, directing his attention to something besides his own needs, his own wants, his own selfish desires, war, pestilence, famine and disease would fade away before humanity like mist before the sun. It is selfishness that crushes the life out of men. It is contagious—take a bunch of boys playing on the street, throw a coin before them and they will nearly all scramble for it. The first coin you throw there will perhaps be two or three boys in the bunch who will stand to one side and make no effort, but for the second that falls you will find those boys scrambling as eagerly for the money as any of the rest—simply through force of contagion.

Place men in the march of the world, where every man is working at high tension, and it is either get in or get out; it is either follow the example of the rest or lay down your bow and quiver. Commercialism is like militarism. In Europe each nation had to arm because other nations were arming, and every nation was striving to get ahead of the other, so that it kept them all doing their utmost in arming. In trade life it is the same thing. With men they are obliged to render their best intellect, their best energy and sacrifice their vitality so that their neighbors and competitors may not get ahead of them, thus leaving them in the rear there to be speedily crushed by the most to suffer defeat and oftentimes humiliation.

What a noble thing it would be for all men if they would enter into a compact and devote themselves for a short time each day to the elimination of utter selfishness and the devotion of society to the general good, instead of each attempting to render it to his own individual aggrandizement.

French Jury Swayed by Psychology of Crowd In Courtroom

Judge EDWARD SWANN of New York on the Caillaux Trial

It would appear that in France, while questions of fact are nominally for the jury to determine, nevertheless the AUDIENCE IN THE COURTROOM IS SO RESPONSIVE TO EVERY SENTIMENT AND EMOTION caused by a piece of evidence or the argument or even exclamations of counsel that it performs more than the functions of the "Greek chorus" in a classic drama, while the JURY, BEING ONLY HUMAN, MUST BE SWAYED ONE WAY OR THE OTHER UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THE "PSYCHOLOGY OF THE CROWD," and there often results what we may be excused for calling "a recall of the verdict" before it is rendered.

THE FRENCH SYSTEM, EVEN MORE THAN OURS, ALLOWS WONDERFUL LATITUDE FOR THE DISPLAY OF SKILL OF COUNSEL IN DEFELECTING THE ISSUES FROM THE TRUE ISSUE OF THE GUILT OR INNOCENCE OF THE ACCUSED. THE REPORT OF THE FIRST DAY OF THE TRIAL SAYS THAT M. LABORI, COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENSE, WAS CLOSELY WATCHING AN OPPONENT TO CONVERT THE TRIAL INTO A DEBATE OF THE POLITICAL QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, WITH THE INTENT, OF COURSE, OF OBSCURING THE ISSUE BY AN APPEAL

Amount Expected to Place Highways in Tip-Top Condition For Years to Come, and Voters Will Decide at Election to be Called by Deputy State Supervisors of Elections Board.

At a special session of the county commissioners, Friday evening, a resolution was adopted calling for an election at which Fayette county taxpayers will decide whether an extra levy of 2 mills shall be levied for a period of five years, in order to provide funds sufficient to place the highways throughout the county in tip-top condition.

The resolution adopted provides for a two mill levy, which it is estimated, would bring in about $80,000 each year to rebuild Fayette roads. If the resolution is approved by the voters, then each taxing district will benefit by the fund, and highways all over the county will be rebuilt and modernized to prevent rapid wear.

The Deputy State Supervisors of Elections will, at an early date, decide when the election shall be held, and, in all probability, the date set will be the same as the general election this fall.

The resolution adopted by the commissioners, is as follows:

BE IT RESOLVED by the County Commissioners of Fayette county, O., that the amount of taxes that may be raised for the improvement of public roads and highways within said county by the levy of taxes at the maximum rate authorized by sections 5649-2 and 5649-3 of the General Code within its taxing district, will be insufficient and that it is expedient to levy taxes for said purpose at a rate in excess of such rate and that it will require an increase of rate of two mills, above the maximum rate of taxation for the period of five years for said purpose; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be certified to the Deputy State Supervisor of Elections of Fayette county, Ohio, for further proceedings, according to law.

Done this 28th day of August, 1914

NO MORE SHINERS ON COURT HOUSE LAWN

In response to a great many complaints lodged with them, the county commissioners Friday afternoon took action whereby the janitor was to be notified to keep all trespassing shoe shining stands off the court house lawn after today.

This will mean that all shining stands now on the lawn must seek other location, and that the lawn will be kept free from shining stands in the future, and its beauty will not be marred as heretofore.

No permission had been given for shining stands on the lawn, it is claimed, and no fee was paid to either the county or city.

MAY PAVE SIDEWALK ON PAINT STREET

If sufficient funds can be obtained the City Board of Education will soon begin the work of paving the sidewalk along the school grounds on Paint street.

A great deal of complaint has been lodged with the Board on the condition of the walk, and the paving may be taken up and completed this fall, and if not this fall, next spring is expected to witness the work, both on Paint and Temple, where the sidewalks are in bad condition.

CONSERVATORY RE-OPENS.

Mrs. Eldora Stinson will re-open the Stinson Conservatory the first of September.

LACK OF FUNDS PROVES PUZZLER

With an obligation of $600 incurred last year, hanging over the Bloomingburg School district, that district is probably in the worst condition financially than any other in the county, and the Board of Education is now facing the problem of how to conduct school for several months on approximately $800, minus the $600.

Under the taxing limit it is claimed that the greatest amount available for paying salaries to teachers, janitor and for other expenses, the amount from the August Settlement of taxes will not exceed $800, and that no more will be available until next February, unless the same method of conducting the schools as adopted last year when $600 was borrowed, is taken.

Out of the apportionment of the August Settlement five teachers must be paid salaries; one janitor must receive compensation, and incidental expenses must be met. This, together with obligation already pending, is what is troubling the Bloomingburg Board of Education.

LOCAL CHURCHMEN ELECTED TO OFFICE

At the annual Clinton Baptist Association, held at Vigo, Rev. A. W. West was elected the church moderator and Mr. Harry Wood, president of the B. Y. P. U.

Attending the association as representatives of the First Baptist church of this city, were Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wood; Misses Ida Hays, Mabel Briggs, Nina West and Mrs. James, of Jeffersonville. Miss Golda Baughn was the delegate from the Sugar Creek church.

RAINS BRING RELIEF AND WATER IS NOW PLENTIFUL

Streams Are Filled and the Corn Crop and Fall Pasture Are Guaranteed—Unsanitary Creek Flushed—City Water Supply Should Now be Ample to Meet Demands.

The continued rains—just what Fayette county has been demanding to insure complete maturing of the corn crop and plenty of fall pasture, as well as replenishing wells everywhere, have been more than pleasing to everyone, and mean much financially to Fayette farmers.

In addition to the above, the rains have caused a marked flow in the various streams of the county, with the result that the accumulated filth has been moved out and is now being carried into streams lower down.

In this city Paint creek has risen to a point where the long accumulated sewage is on the move, and as a result the sanitary conditions are expected to become decidedly better in and about the city.

In some parts of the county the rain at times reached almost a cloudburst, and fields were covered with water and streams jumped out of bank within a remarkable short time.

Scores of wells in all parts of the county had become dry, and many other wells, which had never before been pumped dry, had reached a point where they furnished barely enough water for use about the home where located.

The rains have been sufficient to guarantee an ample supply of water in this city, as the surface wells are now filled and Paint creek is full.

For many weeks the water supply has not been abundant, and pressure has been remarkably low—so low that much of the time sufficient water was not available above the first floors of business blocks.

ington C. H. banks is 598. Mr. Entler has been offered $500 for the rare coin but has refused it.—Waverly Watchman.

A man in this city who has made a study of rare coins states that $500 is a very liberal price for an old Roman coin, and also states that he has a Sireus, a Roman coin minted about 270 A. D., making the coin 1644 years old, which he values at 50c, and says it cost him less than half that amount.

DEATHS

JOHN.

Christina John, aged 7 months, died Friday morning at 11:00 o'clock at the residence of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank John, on Willard street. Funeral services Monday at the residence at 2:00 o'clock p. m. Burial in Washington cemetery.

RAIN STOPS WORK ON THE HIGHWAYS

The work of repairing the highways of the county has been stopped temporarily by the continue rains, but early next week the work will be resumed once more.

Next week the work of placing 300 loads of gravel on the Prairie pike in Union township, will be taken up. Supt. Elba Wilson has this year placed some 2,000 yards of gravel and stone on the roads of Union township, but there is still urgent need of much work, particularly on the Wilmington pike, where the road is all but worn out.

FUNERAL SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

Despite the downpour of rain the funeral services of Mrs. Alonzo Wilson, held at Sugar Grove church Friday afternoon, were largely attended, the gathering of friends and relatives in itself a high testimonial to the high esteem in which Mrs. Wilson had been held by all who knew her.

Rev. George Creamer conducted an impressive service, the church choir furnishing the music.

Messrs. Scott Fisher, George Moore, W. E. Sturgeon, Harry King, Luther Cockerill and Orville Cockerill, of Seattle, Wash., acted as pall-bearers.

The floral remembrances were very beautiful. Among the special designs were a spray of roses and asters from the Sugar Grove church and one from the Sunday school; from the Sunday school classes of Mrs. Harry Silcott and Miss Ivah Haines, spray purple asters; from Sugar Grove W. C. T. U., white lilies; matrons of Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, crescent of galaxy leaves and asters.

Relatives coming from a distance for the funeral were the aged parents of Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. McLaren, of Samantha; her brother, Roy McLaren, of Wilmington; sister, Mrs. Elton, with her husband, Supt. Elton, of the O. S. & S. O. Home; sister, Mrs. Jess Batson, and Mrs. Batson, from Blanchester; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, Mr. H. O. Wilson, Misses Sarah and Olive Wilson, of Greenfield.

The following obituary was read by Rev. Creamer:

OBITUARY.

Susan McLaren was born November 10, 1859, died August 25, 1914, aged 54 years, 9 months and 15 days.

On the 11th of November, 1891, she was united in marriage to Alonzo Wilson. Of this union were born four children, Ruth, Wilbur, Marguerite and Homer, who with the husband, the aged father and mother and five brothers and sisters, are left to mourn their loss.

In January, 1885, she united with the Friends' church, but had recently given her letter to the M. E. church at this place. She was also a valued member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Her mother being for many years an invalid, she early took upon herself the responsibility of the home and the care of the younger brothers and sisters.

The same unselfish devotion that characterized her young life continued through all her years.

No task was too difficult for her to undertake, no sacrifice too great for her to make for the sake of those she loved.

Truly, it may be said of her, "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed."

Endowed with courage for every trial, patience for every duty, she had sympathy for the sorrowing, forgiveness for the erring, and charity for all.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved wife and mother.

Innocent Old Age.

"Youthful innocence" is one of those expressions which is untrue so far as criminals are concerned. It is a remarkable fact that a criminal is at his worst when he is young, and the older he becomes the better the life he leads.

Criminal statistics show, as a matter of fact, that the most virtuous age of the average wrongdoer is between fifty and sixty. It is in the very earliest part of their careers, between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one, that men and women criminals are at their worst. From twenty-one to old age they gradually improve.

This also goes to prove another remarkable fact about criminals, and that is that marriage helps to reform a man or woman. At the average age at which most people marry there is a remarkable drop in criminal statistics.

Between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one—the time when a man is at his worst, criminally speaking—are just those years when a child is breaking away from its parents and is allowed to go free.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Story of Stevenson.

After one of Dumas' plays which he saw presented in Paris and in which a man employs an unworthy stratagem against a woman Robert Louis Stevenson wrote:

"I came forth from that performance in a breathing heat of indignation. On the way down the Francis stairs I trod on an old gentleman's toes, whereupon, with that suavity which so well becomes me, I turned about to apologize and on the instant, repenting me of that intention, stopped the apology midway and added something in French to this effect: 'No. You are one of the persons who have been applauding that piece. I retract my apology.'"

In Social Circles

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Homer Frank DeWeese, of St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Lola Musgrave, of Belling, Mont., on Wednesday, August 26th.

The announcement elicits much interest in this city, the former home of the bridegroom.

Mr. DeWeese is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William DeWeese and has been connected with the Aluminum Cook-Utensil Co., of St. Louis, since graduating from the Ohio Wesleyan university five years ago. He was first with the Pittsburg branch of the company, but is now with the main office at St. Louis.

The bride is a talented musician, a graduate of several musical schools, and resigned as director of music in the Belling schools to wed Mr. DeWeese.

The young couple are now on a wedding trip through Yellow Stone National Park, Denver, and other cities of the west, and will visit the bridegroom's parents in this city before going to their home in St. Louis. Formerly a bright and popular member of Washington's younger circles, congratulations galore await the coming of Mr. DeWeese and his bride.

In compliment to her guest, Miss Pauline Joseph, of Columbus, Mrs. Anna Bush Coffman charmingly entertained a dozen young girls with a picnic supper Friday evening. The incessant rain necessitated changing the original plans for a picnic on the lawn, but the indoor picnic with its delicious "eats", served in picnic fashion, proved just as enjoyable as if the sun had been shining. August lilies and clusters of zenias adorned the rooms.

Participating in the affair were Miss Lena Thompson, of Indianapolis; Misses Dorothy Saxton, Mary Culhan, Carrie Willis, Nina Dahl, Helen Baker, Ruth Parrett, Ada Woodward, Lillian Davis, Margaret Mark. Mrs. Coffman also entertained a few additional guests of her personal friends.

Among the week's social events Mr. Maurice and Miss Faye Williams delightfully entertained in honor of their cousin, Mr. Earl F. Black, of Indianapolis.

The lawn and plaza were beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns, the color scheme of white and yellow being artistically carried out.

At the door, Miss Williams and Miss Pauline Dale received the guests. About 15 couples enjoyed the evening's entertainment of music, dancing and games. Assisting the hostess in the serving of a dainty three-course luncheon were Miss Coleman and Mrs. Williams.

Out-of-town guests were Misses Carrie L. Schrock and Myra Eutsler, of Greenfield; Miss Mary Price, of Columbus; Messrs. Otho and Clare Culberson, of Milledgeville.

Miss Agatha Skinner, of Greenfield, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. B. W. Wigginton.

Miss Mary Craig leaves Monday for Shelbyville, Ill., to be the guest of Mrs. Roy Dove.

Miss Mariellen Wigginton is the week-end guest of Miss Erma Oxley, at Greenfield.

Miss Nell Lane, of Cambridge, O., is the guest of Mrs. D. H. Rowe and daughter, Mrs. Mart Morris, of Bloomingburg, enroute to Atlanta, Ga., to spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cockerill and little daughter, of Seattle, Wash., who have been visiting Mr. Cockerill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cockerill, south of town, left Saturday for Dayton, where they will spend Sunday at the home of Dr. Willard Cockerill and leave the first of the week for Mrs. Cockerill's home in Illinois. Mr. Cockerill returns to Washington State university in a week, leaving his family in Illinois until October.

Ervin Evans and Ralph Sams, of Hillsboro, were guests in this city.

Mr. J. Star Smith is a business visitor in Columbus today.

Miss Ethel Calvert and Miss Olive Schryver left Saturday on a two-weeks' trip to Chicago, Mackinac and Detroit.

Mr. Carroll McCrea, political editor of the Toledo Blade, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McCrea.

Mrs. Luella Herbert is down from Columbus visiting relatives.

Mr. H. K. Stewart was a business visitor in Columbus the past two days.

Mrs. James Ludden and daughter have returned to their home in Jackson after a visit at the home of Mr. Martin Hillery.

JUDGMENT IN SUM OF $2,000 ASKED

Thomas C. Welsh, attorney of Morrow, representing the Morrow National Bank, Friday afternoon, filed suit in common pleas court in which R. L. LaFollette, of Bloomingburg, is made defendant, the plaintiff asking judgment in the sum of $2,000 with interest at 6 per cent.

The suit was filed on promissory notes; one for $500, bearing date of January 21, 1914, and the second for $1,500, dated January 17, 1914, and bearing 6 per cent interest. Both notes are payable on demand, and are signed only by the defendant.

The action is the result of money obtained from the bank while the defendant was engaged in the construction of a school building at Morrow.

STING OF HORNETS NEARLY PROVES FATAL

While going from his residence to the pike with a basket of eggs intended for the huckster, former county sheriff Wm. Anderson of Idaho, was attacked by an army of angry hornets and severely stung about the face, arms and body.

His cries summoned aid and he was hurriedly taken home where everything possible was done to alleviate the suffering due to the sting of the savage species of wasp.

Medical aid was hastily summoned and for a time it was thought that Mr. Anderson's life was in danger. Two daughters, Mrs. John Penniston and Mrs. Will Schausel who reside in this city were apprised of their father's condition and both left early Sunday morning for his bedside. Mr. Anderson, however, withstood the poison and shock of the stings nobly and rallied with sufficient strength to bring him through. He is doing nicely at present and in a few days will feel no effects from his narrow escape.—Waverly Watchman.

Kindness of the Boss.

Little Tommy, who was about knee high to a half pint, was employed by a busy broker. One afternoon the broker was sitting at his desk trying to collect his thoughts as well as some coin when he suddenly looked up and signaled Tommy to draw near.

"Tommy," said the boss, digging down into his jeans, "here's a fifty-cent chunk of silver. Take it and hustle off to some vaudeville show."

"Thank you very much, sir," gratefully responded Tommy, freezing fast to the coin. "That's what I call being some good to a poor kid."

"Don't think that I'm being good to you," was the quick rejoinder of the boss. "I want you to learn a new tune. I can't stand the one you've been whistling for two months any longer."—Exchange.

THE STUDY OF WORDS.

It's a Helpful Scheme to Use Your Dictionary Every Day.

Writing an article, "Treasure In Books," in the Woman's Home Companion, Laura Spencer Porter gives the following excellent advice about the advantages to be gained from the study of words:

"The study of words—it may sound to you a dry thing, yet I promise you it is not; very far from it.

"And this brings me to suggest that the habit of one of the great writers of studying carefully from a good dictionary five words each day is one from which we might all of us get a good deal of profit. Or take a good book of synonyms, for instance, and learn from it each day five words somewhat similar, comparing and weighing carefully the meanings and values of them.

"Notice the degrees of force in the following: To dislike, to hate, to loathe, to detest, to abhor. Each note struck is a little stronger, higher, we might say, like an ascending crescendo scale. So to instruct, to teach, to educate, are each quite different in meaning, with a great nicety of difference. So, rebuke, reprimand, censure, blame, are all of one color, but of how different shades of meaning. So, too, misfortune, calamity, disaster; so, weak, feeble, decrepit, and what delicate difference between fame and renown or feminine and womanly and womanish."

Colors of Rainbows.

Violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red are the colors of the rainbow. Most are sure of that. It is true, however, of only a very few rainbows. The colors of rainbows vary with their width, and their width varies with the size of the raindrops, big drops producing narrow bows with bright clearly defined colors, small drops producing wide bows with pale colors. Here are the colors as generally seen: (1) When the raindrops average one millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange, light red, dark red; (2) when the drops average three-tenths of a millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange; (3) when the drops average one-tenth of a millimeter, very pale violet, violet, whitish blue, whitish green.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR'S CLAIM

Says the Kaiser's Troops Will Make a Determined Stand on the Vistula River—Protest Against Censorship Over Wireless Stations to Be Renewed—Raids of Zeppelin Airships. Germany Not After a Loan.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, left here for New York, where he will remain until next week. He will return to Washington for a conference with President Wilson at the White House next Thursday, at which the ambassador is expected to renew his protest against the censorship over wireless stations which prevents him communicating confidentially with his government.

Ambassador Von Bernstorff denied the charge that the German government had violated the Hague convention in bombarding Antwerp from a Zeppelin airship. "Antwerp is a fortified city," he said. "It is therefore liable to bombardment."

The ambassador declared that the reports of Russian successes in eastern Germany are much exaggerated. He said that the reported battles were merely outpost skirmishes and that the Germans will make a determined stand at the Vistula river.

It is admitted here by officials of the German embassy that the garrison at Kiauchau, China, will be vanquished eventually by the Japanese, although the 2,000 Germans composing the garrison will make a formidable defense of the port, aided by the modern guns mounted on steel turrets.

Ambassador Von Bernstorff declared that he had had conferences while in New York recently with James Speyer over the financial situation which has resulted partly from the cutting of the German cable. He denied reports that Germany was endeavoring to raise a war loan of $500,000,000 in this country.

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week. If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers post-paid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

ENGLAND'S FUTURE RULER

Prince of Wales is Lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards.

WOULD STEP BEFORE

Paris, Aug. 29.—Germany is pushing forward against the French at Arras in a strongly developed flanking movement. France is hurrying reinforcements to enable her troops at Arras to hold their present defenses. Success of the German flanking maneuvers would leave all northern France at the mercy of the kaiser and would threaten to sever French communication with England. The second line of the defense of the allies on French soil is under tremendous pressure by the full force of 1,200,000 German invaders.

French and British troops repulsed an attack of Germans in superior numbers in northeastern France.

TO CUT OFF ENGLAND

Amiens, Aug. 29.—The situation here in the north of France appears to be very grave. Chians appeared at Donal and were also seen around Arras. The Germans are undoubtedly making straight across the country to Abbeville, on the road to Dieppe. This will cut off Pas de Calais and completely sever the railway and telegraphic communication with England.

PLAN TO MEET RUSS

Berlin, Aug. 29.—Russia's advance in East Prussia will be checked quickly by energetic measures now under way, the war office announces. Reserve divisions are being hurried to the front. The German army will give battle in force when the Russians come into contact with the first line of German forts.

Cube sugar and ivory piano keys are inspected under the ghastly greenish rays of mercury vapor lamps with greater speed and accuracy than can be attained in ordinary daylight. Any impurity in sugar manifests itself by changing the white to a shade of yellow. To detect impurities, plates of the crystallized sugar one inch thick are examined by a man looking through them toward a mercury vapor lamp of the kind which is a familiar adjunct of the galleries of postcard photographers. When thus viewed, according to the Electrical World, the yellow impurities stand out clearly in the bluish green light. The color of ivory varies from the outside to the center of the tusk to such an extent that manufacturers sort the pieces into sixteen different shades. Formerly this sorting could be done only in bright daylight, but with the light of the mercury vapor lamp grading can be done without limitation at any hour of the twenty-four.

G. O. P.'S LAND ON WAR BILL

Frustrate Plan to Put Measure Through the House.

Washington, Aug. 29.—An unexpected attack on the administration bill providing that the federal government shall assume all marine risks incident to the European war frustrated the plans of the Democratic leaders to put the measure through the house. The attack was led by Republican leaders, who are opposed to the bill on the ground that it might put the United States where it was charged by one or other of the belligerents with vacating its position as a neutral.

In a speech in which he showed more temper than usual, Representative Underwood, Democratic leader, denied that the passage of the bill would lead to violations of the neutrality proclamation, and he characterized the Republican opponents of the measure as "little Americans."

Mr. Stevens (Minn.), a Republican leader, made the principal speech in opposition. He said ships were available to carry American goods but that trade had been interrupted owing to the failure up to date of the various European governments to reach a satisfactory agreement with the United States on the question of money exchanges.

Uncovered by the Wind.

"In the year 1793," says an old chronicle, "the waters of the Rio de la Plata were forced in the month of April by a most violent current of wind to the distance of ten leagues, so that the neighboring plains were entirely inundated, and the bed of the stream was left dry. A number of ships which had been sunk in the river for upward of thirty years were uncovered and, among others, an English vessel which was cast away in 1762. Several persons repaired to the bed of the river, on which they could walk without wetting their feet, and returned laden with silver and other riches, which had been long buried under the water. The phenomenon obtained for three days, at the end of which the wind ceased, and the water returned with great violence to its native bed."

RENTED SCENERY.

It Was a Parisian's Idea, and It Suited the Thrifty Peasants.

M. Georges Moreau one beautiful day, in the course of a walk at Villiers-Saint Benoist, greatly admired three magnificent oaks which towered from the edge of a field.

"You'll not see 'em much more, citizen," growled the owner of the land. "They make too much shade, I'm going to cut them down."

"What a sacrifice! Cut down those magnificent trees! Better rent them to me."

"What'll you do with them?" "I shall look at them as I pass by. Will you give to me for 15 francs a year the right to admire them?"

"Agreed! It's only a Parisian who could have such a funny idea."

The story spread abroad, and now whenever M. Moreau takes a walk in that district the peasants hail him with: "Hey, citizen, will you rent those trees there of me? If not I'll cut 'em down. Yes or no? One, two, three."

M. Moreau yields and pays to save the lives of the trees that delight his view. The little birds would be ungrateful did they not salute with their most harmonious roulades the preserver of their nests.—Crie de Paris.

DUCKING A SCOLD.

Punishment a Long Tongue Used to Win in Old England.

It is interesting in these days of woman's rights and woman's progress to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors—in face by the whole village—to the nearest pond, and the greener and slimmer the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the ducking stool, and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely pinioned.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half-drowned woman was raised to the surface again to the jeers and laughter of the onlookers it can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was as penitent a woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home, a sadder and wiser woman until the next time.—London Tit-Bits.

Saving Trouble.

When Bobbie went to see his grandmother he was much interested in whatever went on in the kitchen. One day she said to him: "I'm going to make you a nice little pie in a sauce, all for yourself. Don't you think I'm pretty good to take so much trouble?" Bobbie pondered. "Grandma," he said at length, "mother told me not to be a bother, and if it's going to be any trouble you can just as well make my pie reg'lar size."—Exchange.

BASEBALL

SPORT LETTER

Cincinnati, August 28, 1914.

Where is all this first place excitement in the National League going to end. Here it is less than seven weeks to the close of the season and the matter of the pennant still is an open bet, with four teams in the running for the big honors. The past week has seen a decided advance on the part of Boston, St. Louis and Chicago, and a drop on the part of New York, with the result that the Beane went to a tie with Giants on Sunday, with St. Louis only one game behind the two leaders, and the Chicago within striking distance of the other three. The present week promises to see a break in this tense situation, as the four leaders will be playing each other during all of that time, and it is certain that some one will tumble off the perch. Meanwhile the National League race, as a whole, is the tightest that this old organization ever has witnessed, with the eight teams bunched within one hundred points on Monday, making it possible for even the tail-enders at this time to take the lead before the end of the season, although no one looks for such a condition to eventuate.

Manager Herzog is pursuing his building-up policy for the Reds with unswerving vigor. During the past few days he has added Pitcher Fahrer of Dayton; First Baseman Graham, of Roanoke, and Outfielder Killefer, of Minneapolis, to the team's line-up. These men, and a number of others who are on their way to join the Reds, will be given every opportunity to display their fine points between now and the close of the season. Manager Herzog realizes that this is the time to see these recruits at their best, and at the same time to offer the local followers of the game the opportunity of studying the youngsters under most favorable conditions. The Reds will start next season with fewer experiments than any other team in the league for the simple reason that Manager Herzog will do practically all his experimenting this fall.

of the game over the showing made by Manager Herzog that a movement has been started to present the hustling leader of the Reds with a testimonial, expressive of the appreciation of the loyalty and ability shown during the season by the Reds' new boss. The date for the presentation of the testimonial has been set for Sunday, September 13, on which occasion there will be a double-header between the Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals. The Reds, by the way, have been largely instrumental in keeping down the percentage of the Cards, so that this double-header, as well as single Sunday game between the Reds and Huggins' men on September 6, is certain to draw large audiences. The final appearance of an eastern team on the local lot is set for next Sunday, when the Phillies bid farewell for the year.

Cincinnati, through the Chamber of Commerce, has put in a bid for the 1916 Olympic games, should it be decided inexpedient to hold these contests in Berlin. Cincinnati offers excellent facilities for all the events, and is particularly happy in the matter of a Marathon course over its many hills, and for the aquatic events in the Ohio river pool formed by the government dam at Fern Bank, which gives the city a lake, twenty miles in length, with an average depth of nine feet, right at its very doors. As yet no decision has been reached to change the location of the games for 1916, but if a change is announced, Cincinnati will be found fighting for the honor of entertaining the world's athletes.

There is some talk of holding a series of stock car speed trials in connection with the annual automobile show of the Cincinnati Automobile Dealers' Association in this city from October 3 to 10. At that time of year the roads in this vicinity are in the best possible shape, due to the repairing and oiling that has been done preparatory to the long winter campaign. However, even if this suggestion of road races should not be carried out, the show itself will offer the greatest attractions ever gathered at a motor car exhibit in the middle west, outside of Chicago. More cars and a greater amount of space are promised than at any previous local show.

No wonder Jack Johnson wants to go into the French army. Jack would as soon be shot as be broke—and according to reports from Paris the negro champion is financially strapped. It is said that his creditors seized all of the purse of $50,000 which he was to have received for going into the ring with Frank Moran and that the chickens he expected to buy with this amount still are cackling in the old home coop. With the war on, and the United States fight market barred to him, Johnson sure is in a bad way for his daily pork chops and trimmings.

DOGS IN ALASKA.

Carry Great Loads Over Snow That Would Not Hold a Man.

Dogs are surely the real thing for "mushing" in the cold country. To my mind they beat reindeer a mile. Most of them weigh less than 100 pounds, and they distribute their weight over their four feet, so that they can trot over a weak snow crust where a man would sink out of sight by breaking through the crust into the soft snow below. On a good, level, smooth trail ten dogs can trot along with a ton of freight behind them, and 500 or 600 pounds is a fair load on poor trails.

A peculiar thing is that a twelve foot sled, twenty-two to twenty-four inches wide, with runners two and one-quarter inches wide, bearing a load of 600 to 800 pounds, will not sink through a snow crust that will not bear a man. This occurs because two runners two and one-quarter inches wide and twelve feet long give a large area of bearing on the crust. This, coupled with the motion that keeps the sled passing over all the time, accounts for the remarkable fact I am speaking of.

One of the greatest dangers in "mushing" is encountering water under the snow on the river ice in very cold weather or breaking through into hollow places where the stream has sunk away from under the ice. This is the most dangerous of all, and often when it happens a man is frozen to death before he can get to shelter or get up his tent and start a fire.—B. S. Rodey in Albuquerque Herald.

How It Happened.

"How did the accident happen?" asked the sympathetic friend.

"Well, I'll tell you," replied the man on crutches. "The automobile was going pretty fast, and all of a sudden we struck a wet place on the asphalt and there was a noise, and the doctor said, 'He'll be able to be around in about four weeks.'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Family Traits.

"If there's anything I enjoy," said Mr. Bliggins, "it's roaming around in out-of-the-way places like a boy scout in the afternoon and learning the new dances in the evening."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "isn't it remarkable how many parents nowadays take after their children?"—Washington Star.

STEVENSON'S LAMENT.

A Book He Couldn't Read and the Kind of Story He Wanted.

This, from the "Letters of R. L. Stevenson," shows his aversion to reading one of his own books and the kind of story for which he yearned:

To W. E. Henley: I send you a book which (or I am mistook) will please you—it pleased me. But I do desire a book of adventure—a romance—and no man will get or write me one. Dumas I have read and reread too often; Scott, too, and I am short. I want to hear swords clash. I want a book to begin in a good way—a book, I guess, like "Treasure Island," alas, which I have never read and cannot, though I live to be ninety. I would that some one else had written it! By all that I can learn it is the very book for my complaint. I like the way I hear it opens, and they tell me John Silver is good fun. And to me it is and must ever be a dream unrealized, a book unwritten. Oh, my sighings after romance or even Skeltery, and oh, the weary age which will produce me neither!

"Chapter I.—The night was dark and cloudy, the ways foul. The single horseman, cloaked and booted, who pursued his way across Willesden common, had not met a traveler when the sound of wheels."

"Chapter I.—'Yes, sir,' said the old pilot, 'she must have dropped into the bay a little afore dawn. A queer craft she looks.'

"She shows no colors," returned the young gentleman musingly.

"They're a lowering of a quarter boat, Mr. Mark," resumed the old sailor. "We shall soon know more of her."

"Aye," replied the young gentleman called Mark, "and here, Mr. Seadrift, comes your sweet daughter, Nancy, tripping down the cliff."

"God bless her kind heart, sir," ejaculated old Seadrift.

"Chapter I.—The notary, Jean Rossignol, had been summoned to the top of a great house in the Isle St. Louis to make a will, and now, his duties finished, wrapped in a warm roquefaure and with a lantern swinging from one hand, he issued from the mansion on his homeward way. Little did he think what strange adventures were to befall him!"

That is how stories should begin. And I am offered husks instead.

What should be:

The Pillboxer's Cache.
Jerry Abershaw.
Blood Money; a Tale.

What is:
Aunt Anne's Tea Cozy.
Mrs. Brierly's Niece.
Society; a Novel.

R. L. S.

Almost Insulted.

Amid the lace bargains in one of the larger department stores the other day a shopper engrossed in thought set her little Japanese spaniel on the counter. One of the salesgirls, not seeing the little dog, threw a remnant of reduced lace over him and entirely submerged him. When the woman went to look for her pet he was not to be found, but several shrill yelps, accompanied by an upheaval of the lace, betrayed his presence. He was quickly rescued from his predicament, and the woman, showering kisses upon his moist, upturned nose, said, "Did they cover mamma's precious with cheap fifty cent lace?"

The salesgirl, who evidently had cultivated diplomacy, assured the dog's mistress that the lace had been reduced from $1 to 50 cents, and the woman took her pet away mollified.—Philadelphia Record.

Ready For Any Sacrifice.

Even when the London Times was sold at a high price its agony column was entertaining. Now that a copy of the journal costs only a penny the column is still more agonizing. Witness this advertisement:

"In order to save his aged parents from distress, gentleman (foreigner) wishes to sell himself for any purpose. Willing to do right away anything. I sincerely desire an offer."

If this cry had been uttered in the old days Satan would have appeared in a pleasing form and with courteous address waited on the gentleman in despair. Only a scribbled signature, only a penful of blood, would have been necessary, and the aged parents would have rolled in luxury. This is a sadly prosaic age.—Boston Herald.

Feasted on Candles.

Russian soldiers, according to the author of "Eat, Drink and Be Merry," esteem tallow candles a great luxury. He facetiously describes how they came across a huge store of them among the French baggage on the retreat from Moscow and summarily snuffed them out of existence. "Never were they consumed in such a style before. The enraptured warriors drew them across their mouths—like a bow across a fiddle—and left only the bare wicks as a proof of now easily their coverings, so necessary for lights, can be readily utilized for livers."

Literary Tragedy.

Ned—That was a hard blow to literature yesterday. Ted—What was that? Ned—Why, lightning struck a house, setting fire to a magazine in the cellar, which exploded, shattering the first and second stories and killing two authors who were at work on the third story.

A Roundabout Reply.

"Darling," said a young husband, "what would you do if I should die? Tell me!"

"Please don't suggest such a thing," was the reply. "I can't bear the thought of a stepfather for our little boy."

TRAVEL WITH A ROPE.

Be Sure You Have One Handy if You Take a Trip to Italy.

The following extracts from an article in the Woman's Home Companion explains why no one should travel in Italy without a rope:

"Let me urge the tourist not to fail to provide himself with a stout rope—a piece of clothesline is excellent—with which to tie up the trunk which is to go into the Italian baggage car. If you do not you may miss many train connections. It is a trick of the canny Italian baggage master."

"When you go to check or 'register' your trunk at the railway station this crafty robber will try to stick his fingers under the lock or under the staples at the sides. Then he will shrug his shoulders and tell you blandly that he cannot accept the trunk for registration, as it is not fastened securely enough and if the baggageman stole any of your effects while en route the railroad would be responsible. The trunk must be tied with a rope and sealed, he will tell you."

"You have no time to go rope hunting. You have to buy a rope from him. He charges you what he thinks he can make you pay. The price depends on how many minutes you still have to catch your train. Then he clips on a little leaden tag where the rope is knotted, and your trunk is officially sealed. It is a very serious offense to break this seal."

"Now, then, if your trunk is roped when it reaches the hands of the boss baggageman he is required at your request and upon payment of 2 cents to affix the official seal. So, as a last word, don't forget the rope!"

They All Think That.

"There goes a man who is sure I'm not doing my duty to my family."

"One of your neighbors?"

"No."

"Evidently a friend of an intimate friend of yours?"

"Wrong again. Not even an acquaintance."

"Who is he, then?"

"A life insurance agent."—Detroit Free Press.

The Thunder.

"Say, mamma," queried the small son of a local labor leader, "is it the thunder that strikes or the lightning?"

"The lightning, dear," was the reply.

"Oh, well," replied the youngster, "I suppose the thunder doesn't belong to the union."—Chicago News.

SIEGE GUNS OF WEATHER MAN REPULSE FOURTH REGIMENT

Flower of Ohio Infantry is Repeatedly Driven Back Into Camp by Merciless Peppering of Weather Man's Forces and Big Battle Is All One-Sided—Water Soaked Camp Becomes Very Uncomfortable to Defeated Soldiers.

"Dear Dad:—While I am writing this letter the water is pouring down the hill-side in torrents, and water is everywhere, making camp-life anything else but agreeable."

The above excerpt from a letter written back to this city by a member of Company M gives a definite idea of camp life at Maple Grove Friday and Friday night—to say nothing of previous days and Saturday morning.

The annual maneuvers of the Fourth regiment have been anything else but a complete success, although the boys have made the best of the continued unfavorable weather and have enjoyed themselves, notwithstanding the many downpours which drove them into camp and almost drove them out again.

Time after time the Fourth, thirsty for the taste of blood, anxious for the smell of gun-powder and eager for the fray, has been driven back into camp by the onslaught of the forces of the common enemy—the Weather Man.

In every direction the Fourth has turned, the Weather Man has turned his siege guns upon the disgruntled forces and they have fallen back into camp to await another opportunity to sally forth and complete their work before again having to face the forces of the Weather Man.

Friday afternoon during a breach in the clouds, the men marched out of camp and had proceeded a half mile or more when they were forced to retreat by a general attack of the elements. The rain coats carried by the men prevented them from being soaked to the skin.

Under the continual hammering of the elements, the Fourth remained in camp and the big battle, which was to last far into Friday night, was called off.

Whether the battle will be fought tonight, if the weather conditions permit, or whether the Fourth will break camp with about 40,000 rounds of unused ammunition, has not been ascertained.

Tomorrow is the last day of camp, and if the weather is good a dress parade, and band concert will be on the program for Sunday afternoon, and early Monday morning; the order to break camp will be given and the many companies will scatter to their various homes.

JAPS ARE SPARRING

By Associated Press.

Tsing-Tau, Kiao Chow, August 29.—One of the forts threw a shell across the entrance of the bay yesterday afternoon at a small party of Japanese that had landed. The landing party departed immediately. Six Japanese warships may be seen every day from the Tsing-Tau fortifications cruising back and forth beyond the range of the German guns. The Germans are continuing with energy their preparations against attacks by land. Mines are being placed and provided with electrical connections, and guns are being brought into position.

CURIOUS PIPEFISH.

The Males Have Pockets in Which They Carry Their Young.

The kangaroo has always seemed to have the monopoly of that convenient way of carrying its babies in a pouch, but it has been discovered that a fish has the same useful receptacle, which it uses for the same purpose. The pipefish, as it is called from the length of its jaws, has a pocket on the under side of its body nearly half its length. It is found in the male species only and is the only part of its body which is unprotected by large flat plates, which take the place of scales in its protective armor.

If a pipefish is taken from the water and its little ones shaken out of the pouch back into the water they always seem either unable or disinclined to run away. But if the father is placed in the water again all the small fish immediately swim back into the pouch. These curious little creatures have prehensile tails, which they use to hold on to the seaweed to protect themselves from being carried away by the tide. The pipefish is similar to the small eel, being about a foot in length and an inch in thickness. But, unlike the eel, it has a very long jaw and the peculiar defensive armor already mentioned.—New York Sun.

Facts Versus Fancies.

Richard Le Gallienne was sympathizing with a young writer whose book of poetry had been refused by twelve publishers.

"Real lovers of poetry," said Mr. Le Gallienne, are unfortunately becoming rare. Too many people nowadays are like the judge.

"This judge was recommended by a poetic friend to read Shelley. The great man of the law said he supposed he ought to read a little poetry, and, having heard so much of Shelley, he would try him.

"And what do you think of it?" said his friend to the judge after he had waded through a few pages of 'Epipsychidion.' 'Isn't it beautiful?'

"Well, well—oh, yes. I daresay it is," said the judge. 'But what I want to know is when are we going to get at the facts?'—Washington Star.

The Supreme Court.

The supreme court of the United States is supposed to be strictly non-political, free from all parties and above all parties. It was designed by the fathers of the constitution to act as the "governor," or "flywheel," of our system of government, maintaining justice and right in the midst of the wrangling factions and clashing interests. According to the theory, the supreme court is to know nothing but the constitution and the laws that are made in pursuance thereof and in every matter that is brought up before it to hold the balance even, regardless of everything else.—New York American.

Smartness.

When people who think they are smart meet people whom they recognize as smarter than themselves they call them "disagreeable."—Detroit News.

MRS REA DIES IN NEW MEXICO

Mrs. Millard Rea, formerly of this county, but who has resided near Greenfield the past few years, died a few days ago at Rincon, New Mexico, and the remains have been shipped to Greenfield and interred in the cemetery at that place.

Mrs. Rea had been ill for many months, and last winter sought to regain her health by going to North Carolina. A few weeks ago Mr. Rea accompanied his wife to the home of her uncle in New Mexico, hoping that the change of climate would restore her health. He left her at the home of her uncle and returned home, where a few days later he received word of his wife's death. She leaves a family of several children.

SELLS BUSINESS IN GREENFIELD

Mr. James E. Smith, formerly of this city, who has been dealing in automobile and motorcycle supplies and operating a vulcanizing plant on Jefferson street, Greenfield, has disposed of his business, owing to ill health, and will regain his lost strength before again entering business.

While in Greenfield Mr. Smith has been making good, but sometime ago became ill and has been unable to give his attention to the business.

PARTITION SUIT IN COMMON PLEAS

Harry Gray and others have filed suit in common pleas court in which Carrie Fitzgibbons and others are made defendants in application for partition of certain realty, owned by the late Alta B. Gray, and for judgment in the sum of $4310, one-half of a sum obtained for certain property sold.

Gregg, Patton and Gregg represent the plaintiffs.

Your Congressman's Politics

Of course you know it, but do you know the politics of every other congressman in Ohio? Of every state senator and representative? Do you even know the names of them all? Isn't it possible that the information might be useful to you some day? And don't you think you'd like to know anyway? Or at least be able to look it up easily if you wanted to?

It takes less than one minute to find those names and the districts, and the party to which the men belong, in our 1914 OHIO ALMANAC, just issued.

And if you are not interested in the people who represent you and make most of the laws that govern you, there are 100,000 other facts that you WILL be interested in to be found in this splendid HANDBOOK, and all found with equal facility. There is not another book published which provides such source of information for you. If you don't own an Ohio Almanac you will have to go to the complicated original sources to find those things, just as we did to compile this book for you.
